McConnell The more prolific among the younger writers Frances Duncan Cynthia Flood and Kevin Roberts are in the process of achieving national recognition The stories evoke a strong sense of place of Vancouver's essential relation to its natural setting forest mountains and sea and its existence as a modern urban centre Individual episodes recall the great fire of 1886 turn of the century loggers on Cordova Street rum running in the twenties the internment of Japanese Canadians after Pearl Harbor the hippie era and the modern sub culture of beer parlours and drugs Particular locales include downtown streets the east end the North Shore U B C Stanley Park Kitsilano and the Vancouver Aquarium Stories of the city's social and cultural life describe the process of growing up and growing old family and marital matters the Chinese community and the legends and reality of Native Americans Vancouver Short Stories indicates some of the ways that a particular locality has been transformed into art that in turn enriches our understanding of its reality and enhances our sense of identity

Vancouver Robert A.J. McDonald, 2011-11-01 Making Vancouver explores social relationships in Vancouver from 1863 to 1913 It considers how urbanization structured social boundaries among Burrard Inlet's increasingly large population and is premised on the belief that in studying social boundaries historians must abandon single category forms of analysis and build into their research strategies the capacity to explore complexity Robert McDonald thus traces the relationship between the two forms of identify class and status for the whole of Vancouver society The book starts with the years when settlement on Burrard Inlet centred around two lumber mills explores periods of elite dominance of city institutions and then of growing social and political conflict following the arrival of the railway examines the heightening of class tensions at the turn of the century charts economic growth during the boom years before the war and concludes with three chapters on the tripartite status hierarchy that emerged in concert with that of a class dichotomy It reveals a western city that was neither egalitarian nor closed to opportunity Vancouver up to the pre war crash of 1913 was open and dynamic The rapidity of growth easy access to resources narrow industrial base and influence of ethnicity and race softened the thrust towards class division inherent in capitalism Far more powerful in directing social relations was the quest for status creating a social structure that was no less hierarchical than that predicted by class theory but much more fluid The social boundary that separated the working class from others is revealed as a division that for much of the pre war boom period divided Vancouver society more fundamentally than the boundary separating labour from capital Vancouver Past: Essays in Social History Robert A. J.

McDonald, Jean Barman, 1986-01-01 Focusing on Vancouver's social history the essays written for this special edition of BC Studies treat hitherto neglected areas of the city's past and bring new insights into how its residents lived and worked Receiving particular attention is the socio economic and residential structure of Vancouver with one author arguing that the city's economy created an urban working class which was at once more complex and politically more conservative than that of the highly polarized communities on Vancouver Island and in the Interior Frommer's Vancouver & Victoria
