Finin,Steven Willmott,2006-03-30 There is a growing interest in the use of ontologies for multi agent system applications On the one hand the agent paradigm is successfully employed in those applications where autonomous loosely coupled heterogeneous and distributed systems need to interoperate in order to achieve a common goal On the other hand ontologies have established themselves as a powerful tool to enable knowledge sharing and a growing number of applications have benefited from the use of ontologies as a means to achieve semantic interoperability among heterogeneous distributed systems In principle ontologies and agents are a match made in heaven that has failed to happen What makes a simple piece of software an agent is its ability to communicate in a social environment to make autonomous decisions and to be proactive on behalf of its user Communication ultimately depends on understanding the goals preferences and constraints posed by the user Autonomy is the ability to perform a task with little or no user intervention while proactiveness involves acting autonomously with no need for user prompting Communication but also autonomy and proactiveness depend on knowledge The ability to communicate depends on understanding the syntax terms and structure and the semantics of a language Ontologies provide the terms used to describe a domain and the semantics associated with them In addition ontologies are often complemented by some logical rules that constrain the meaning assigned to the terms These constraints are represented by inference rules that can be used by agents to perform the reasoning on which autonomy and proactiveness are based Coordination and Communication Using Signs Kecheng Liu,Rodney J. Clarke,Peter Bøgh Andersen,Ronald K. Stamper,2012-12-06 Coordination And Communication Using Signs Studies in Organisational Semiotics is a cutting edge volume that bridges the gap between the technical and social aspects of information systems and information technology The chapters in the book are divided into two major sections The first section deals with Communication and Pragmatics and Organisational Systems and the following topics are examined the semiotic framework and natural language coordination and communication using natural language and other artifacts in a real life setting substantive level issues of information systems and business processes from several theoretical perspectives language as action communication quality in the context of systems and business processes organisational action and Greimas semiotics Section Two concentrates on organisational systems which may or may not include a computer system as a component and examines the following topics semiotic strategies and semiotic models of organisational structures the impact of information technology with instructive case studies the impact of information
