Handbook of Research on Schools, Schooling and Human Development Judith L. Meece, Jacquelynne S. Eccles, 2010-06-10 Children spend more time in school than in any social institution outside the home And schools probably exert more influence on children's development and life chances than any environment beyond the home and neighbourhood. The purpose of this book is to document some important ways schools influence children's development and to describe various models and methods for studying schooling effects. Key features include Comprehensive Coverage: this is the first book to provide a comprehensive review of what is known about schools as a context for human development. Topical coverage ranges from theoretical foundations to investigative methodologies and from classroom level influences such as teacher-student relations to broader influences such as school organization and educational policies. Cross-Disciplinary: this volume brings together the divergent perspectives, methods and findings of scholars from a variety of disciplines, among them educational psychology, developmental psychology, school psychology, social psychology, psychiatry, sociology, and educational policy. Chapter Structure: to ensure continuity, chapter authors describe 1) how schooling influences are conceptualized, 2) identify their theoretical and methodological approaches, 3) discuss the strengths and weaknesses of existing research, and 4) highlight implications for future research practice and policy. Methodologies: chapters included in the text feature various methodologies, including longitudinal studies, hierarchical linear models, experimental and quasi-experimental designs, and mixed methods.

Contemporary Issues in Sociology of Sport Andrew Yiannakis, Merrill J. Melnick, 2001. Melnick, PhD. Contemporary Issues in Sociology of Sport includes an exploration of topics and themes that have received limited attention in other sociology of sport texts but have been long-standing social concerns: a review of the attitudes toward female athletes and the anti-homosexual phobias present in sport; an in-depth look at the impoverishment of children's games in America; an overview of high school sport participation; a study of the challenges and benefits of the big-time collegiate sport experience; a critique of television's impact on sport and its portrayal of gender and race; and a review of sport and globalization. Unit I provides the reader with a historical background on the development of sociology of sport and addresses several critical issues about the relationship between sociology, physical education, and sociology of sport.

Handbook of Positive Psychology in Schools Michael J. Furlong, Richard Gilman, E. Scott Huebner, 2009-03-04. National surveys consistently reveal that an inordinate number of students report high levels of boredom, anger, and stress in school, which often leads to their disengagement from critical learning and social development. If the ultimate goal of schools is to educate young people to become responsible and critically thinking citizens who can succeed in life, understanding factors that stimulate them to become active agents in their own learning is critical. A new field, labeled positive psychology, is one lens that can be used to investigate factors that facilitate a student's sense of agency and active school engagement. The purposes of this groundbreaking Handbook are to 1) describe ways that positive emotions, traits, and institutions promote school achievement and healthy social-emotional development, 2) describe how specific positive psychological constructs relate to students and schools and support the delivery of school based services and 3 describe the application of positive psychology to educational policy making By doing so the book provides a long needed centerpiece around which the field can continue to grow in an organized and interdisciplinary manner Key features include Comprehensive this book is the first to provide a comprehensive review of what is known about positive psychological constructs and the school experiences of children and youth Topical coverage ranges from conceptual foundations to assessment and intervention issues to service delivery models Intrapersonal factors e g hope life satisfaction and interpersonal factors e g positive peer and family relationships are examined as is classroom and school level influences e g student teacher and school community relations Interdisciplinary Focus this volume brings together the divergent perspectives methods and findings of a broad interdisciplinary community of scholars whose work often fails to reach those working in contiguous fields Chapter Structure to insure continuity flow and readability chapters are organized as follows overview research summary relationship to student development examples of real world applications and a summarizing table showing implications for future research and practice Methodologies chapters feature longitudinal studies person centered approaches experimental and quasi experimental designs and mixed methods The Early Sociology of
