Solution Focused Group Therapy Linda Metcalf,1998 In our managed care era group therapy long the domain of traditional psychodynamically oriented therapists has emerged as the best option for millions of Americans However the process can be frustratingly slow and studies show that patients actually feel worse after months of group treatment than when they began Can and should the group speed a person s progress Now in this must have book marriage and family therapist Linda Metcalf persuasively argues that the collaborative nature of group therapy actually lends itself to time limited treatment She combines the best elements of group work and the popular solution focused brief therapy approach to create new opportunities for practitioners and patients alike Among the topics covered in this valuable guide are how to learn the model how to design a group and recruit members how to identify exceptions to a group member s self destructive behaviors and thoughts how to help members focus on their successes rather than their failures how to keep the group solution focused when therapists or members fall back into old patterns This unique resource also includes case examples and session transcripts to follow together with reproducible forms that can be used as they are or tailored to a therapist s needs Solution Focused Group Therapyis an up to the minute highly accessible resource for therapists of any orientation Managed care companies in particular will welcome this model which deals so effectively and economically with today s biggest problems including eating disorders chemical dependencies grief depression anxiety and sexual abuse      Health Disparities,

The Population Ecology of Interest Representation Virginia Gray, David Lowery, 1996 This examination of lobbying communities explores how interest group populations are constructed and how they influence politics and public policy By examining how populations of interest groups are comprised this work fills an important gap between existing theories of the origins of individual interest groups and studies of interest group influence The population ecology model of interest communities developed here builds on insights first developed in population biology and later employed by organizational ecologists The model's central premise is that it is the environmental forces confronting interest organizations that most directly shape the contours of interest populations After examining the demography of interest organizations in the fifty American states the population ecology model is used to account for variations in the density and diversity of their interest communities the nature of competition among similar interest organizations to establish viable niches and the impact of alternative configurations of interest communities on the legislative process and the policies it produces These empirical findings suggest that the environment of interest communities is highly constraining limiting their size composition and potential impact on politics Virginia Gray is Professor of Political Science University of Minnesota David Lowery is Burton Craige Professor of Political Science University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill

Environmental Science Daniel Chiras, 2010 Completely updated the eighth edition of Environmental Science enlightens students on the fundamental causes of the current environmental crisis and offers ideas on how we as a global community can create a sustainable future
