So Into You J.D. Walker,2018-04-28 Llewellyn Llew Dane lives for his job or rather to pay down his student loans He enjoys what he does but also appreciates the eye candy provided by Marc Temple a senior manager A pair of jeans had never looked so good on a man In the open minded atmosphere of the company where people date each other constantly it would be easy to approach Marc and announce his interest But Llew has been rejected so often by men in the past that he doesn't see the point in trying And yeah he's broke How impressive would that be to a man like Marc Turns out Marc doesn't care about such things and he has his eye on Llew even if crossed lines of communication and serious self doubt make a possible romance complicated Llew needs to learn to relax and enjoy life And maybe give Marc a chance to show him how

Heartless English Edition JONAXX,2023-06-02 Rozen Elizalde knows what he wants and won't let anyone or anything stop him from getting them He is strong willed driven stubborn and resolute which causes him to clash with the people around him including his family Despite all that Rozen proves himself to be faithful caring and protective Coreen Aquino likes to play things safe and is always caught in the middle of two big choices She thrives in that constant state of uncertainty forcing others to wait for her to make decisions But when push comes to shove Coreen is prepared to sacrifice for the people she loves even if it means leaving the safety of her comfortable state of limbo Rozen has been pining for Coreen since they were children but Coreen likes his brother Noah more and has not exactly been subtle with her feelings Add to that the fact that she likes the chase too much to give it up just like that But Coreen and Rozen will soon learn that though the people we love can be cruel to us the people who are most heartless to us are ourselves

The Thin Tear In The Fabric Of Space Douglas Trevor,2005-10-01 The Thin Tear in the Fabric of Space gathers stories about coping with grief trying to love people who have died and more broadly leaving old versions of the self behind sometimes by choice and sometimes out of necessity In each of the nine stories Douglas Trevor's characters are forced to face uncomfortable realities For Elena Gavrushnekov in the title story that means admitting after the death of her beloved that she still longs for contact with other human bodies For Peter in Central Square it is realizing that like his deceased father before him he is drinking himself to death Unable to confront his incapacitated mother and the memory of the plane crash that killed his father Edwin Morris in Saint Francis in Flint is compelled to acknowledge that his saintly aspirations are not what they appear to be while Sharon Mackaney in The Surprising Weight of the Body's Organs struggles with uncontrollable outbursts of rage in the wake of her young son's death In moments of great pain and loss when self-expression seems impossible and terribly useless the characters in these stories nonetheless discover the tenderness of others In The River the narrator finds that the friendship he has forged with a French girl with whom he can only just communicate has bred intense almost intuitive compassion while in Fellowship of the Bereaved the disconsolate brother of the deceased sister who occupies the empty center of the story uncovers not only anger in his parents but also empathy and humor As these characters persevere in their own lives they do so mindful of and humanized by the experiences of having seen people they know and love slip unexpectedly into the thin tear in the fabric of space that quiet chasm that so resolutely separates the living from the dead
