

SOCIAL NETWORKING

A very good evening to my English teacher PN Siti Munirah and my fellow friends. Today on this fine evening I would like talk about 'Social Networking'

Human beings by and large are social. They feel an inherent need to connect and expand their connections. There is a deep rooted need among humans to share.

In the past, due to geographical distances and economic concerns, connections between people were limited. A social network is made up of individuals that are connected to one another by a particular type of interdependency. It could be ideas, values, trade, anything.

Social networks operate on many levels. Initially social networking happened at family functions where all relative and friends would conglomerate under one roof.

Social networking has always been prevalent; it is just that in these times the face of social networking has changed. Where earlier the process was long drawn, involving a chain movement where in one person led to another through a web of social contacts, today the process is highly specialized.

Communication has been instrumental to a large extent to the growth of social networking. With the advent of Internet and the cell phone a lot of social interaction is captured through email and instant messaging.

Today there are a lot of online social networking sites where individuals volunteer information about themselves and their social networks. Social networking allows for like- minded people to interact with another.

An online social networking site is a place where a user can create a profile and build a personal network that connects the user to other users. What used to be just a niche activity has today taken the proportions of a global phenomenon that engages tens of millions of Internet users.

Schooling New Media Tyler Bickford, 2017 Popular music and digital media are constantly entwined in elementary and middle school children's talk interactions and relationships and offer powerful cultural resources to children in their everyday struggles over institutionalized language literacy and expression in school In Schooling New Media author Tyler Bickford considers how digital music technologies are incorporated into children's expressive culture their friendships and their negotiations with adults about the place of language music and media in school Schooling New Media is a groundbreaking study of children's music and media consumption practices examining how transformations in music technologies influence the way children their peers and adults relate to one another Based on long term ethnographic research with a community of schoolchildren in Vermont Bickford focuses on portable digital music devices i.e. MP3 players to reveal their key role in mediating intimate face to face relationships and structuring children's interactions both with music and with each other Schooling New Media provides an important ethnographic and theoretical intervention into ethnomusicology childhood studies and music education emphasizing the importance and yet under appreciation of interpersonal interactions and institutions like schools as sites of musical activity Bickford explores how headphones facilitate these school centered interactions as groups of children share their earbuds with friends and listen to music together while participating in the dense overlap of talk touch and gesture of their peer groups He argues that children treat MP3 players more like toys than technology and that these devices expand the repertoires of childhood communicative practices such as passing notes and whispering all means of interacting with friends beyond the reach of adults These connections afforded by digital music listening enable children to directly challenge the language and literacy goals of classroom teachers Bickford's Schooling New Media is unique in its intensive ethnographic attention to everyday sites of musical consumption and performance and offers a sophisticated conceptual approach for understanding the problems and possibilities of children's uses of new media in schools Contemporary Sociological Theory and Its Classical Roots:
