Psychology 1chapter Review:

Psychological Perspective on Affirmative Action Dennis Doverspike, Mary Anne Taylor, Winfred Arthur, 2006 What does psychology have to do with affirmative action In the author s opinion questioning the relevance of psychology to an issue such as affirmative action is unfortunately not an uncommon query even among many people within the field of psychology When most people both within and outside the field make an association between psychology and affirmative action it is in terms of the debate over racial differences in performance on intelligence tests Thus the decision to write this book was based upon what was seen as a need to demonstrate and highlight the substantive contribution that psychology can make in terms of improving our understanding of why it is that people respond to affirmative action with a variety of reactions and emotions The primary goal of this book is to discuss empirical research and theoretical work on affirmative action from a psychological perspective The intended audience is academics including undergraduate and graduate students and social science researchers

Fragmented Intimacy Peter J. Adams, 2007-12-20 I recall during my early years as a clinical psychologist being asked by hospital staff to speak with a 32 year old man addicted to alcohol who was being discharged following treatment for pancreatitis This had been his third admission for the same illness and hospital practitioners were exasperated by his choice to continue drinking despite being repeatedly told it would cause irreparable damage to his pancreas from which he would be unlikely to survive I met him in a side room on the ward He sat in his pyjamas in the corner of the room thin and ashen looking with a worried frown fixed across his face Our conversation was initially stilted and I was trying hard not to replicate the lectures and sermons he was likely to have already received from hospital staff As we talked I was able to piece together bits of information about his current circumstances he lived alone he was unemployed and his only family contact was with a brother who visited to check on him occasionally He started to relax into the conversation and then talked about his long struggles with alcohol his drinking had begun in his early teens it had provided him with confidence and friendships he had had some serious motor vehicle accidents he had tried to stop drinking but soon continued he had lost friends jobs and family relationships and in response he had increasingly sought intoxication as
