Thompson, 1976 The Center for Population Research has a deep and continuing interest in encouraging population research by psychologists and in educating psychologists in population This book delineates population psychology in the process of development from very small beginnings in 1969-70 It demonstrates how psychologists have developed interests in population because of its great importance to the United States and all the other countries in the world as well as because of the relevance of population to psychology and vice versa Psychologists are using their backgrounds theories and methodologies to study significant population issues and problems The papers in this book represent pioneering efforts from 1972 to 1975 While not covering all the kinds of population research being done by psychologists they do present an excellent picture of the range scope and diversity of the significant work being done It is hoped that the articles in this book will stimulate more psychologists to become involved in population research and inspire those now in the field to still greater efforts Catalog of Copyright Entries. Bias in Psychiatric/ Psychological Injury Gerald Young,2014-02-11 This book is a comprehensive analysis of the definitions concepts and recent research on malingering feigning and other response biases in psychological injury forensic disability populations It presents a new model of malingering and related biases and develops a diagnostic system based on it that is applicable to PTSD chronic pain and TBI Included are suggestions for effective practice and future research based on the literature reviews and the new systems which are useful also because they can be used readily by psychiatrists as much as psychologists In Malingering Feigning and Response Style Assessment in Psychiatric Psychological Injury Dr Young ambitiously sets out to articulate and synthesize the polarities involved in the assessment of response styles in psychological disabilities including PTSD pain and TBI He does so thoroughly and very even handedly neither minimizing the degree that outright faking can be found in substantial numbers of examinees nor disregarding the possibility that there can be causes for validity test failure other than malingering He reviews the prior systems for classifying evidence of malingering and proposes his own criteria for feigned PTSD These are conservative and well grounded in the prior literature Finally the book contains dozens of very recent references giving testament to Dr Young s immersion in the personal injury literature as might be expected from his experience as founder and Editor in Chief for Psychological Injury and the Law Reviewer Steve
