Behavioral and Social Sciences and Education, Committee on Law and Justice, Committee on Assessing the Research Program of the National Institute of Justice, 2010-10-14 The National Institute of Justice NIJ is the nation's primary resource for advancing scientific research development and evaluation on crime and crime control and the administration of justice in the United States. Headed by a presidentially appointed director, it is one of the major units in the Office of Justice Programs OJP of the U.S. Department of Justice. Under its authorizing legislation, NIJ awards grants and contracts to a variety of public and private organizations and individuals. At the request of NIJ, Strengthening the National Institute of Justice assesses the operations and quality of the full range of its programs. These include social science research, science and technology research and development, capacity building and technology assistance. The book concludes that a federal research institute such as NIJ is vital to the nation's continuing efforts to control crime and administer justice. No other federal, state, local, or private organization can do what NIJ was created to do. Forty years ago, Congress envisioned a science agency dedicated to building knowledge to support crime prevention and control by developing a wide range of techniques for dealing with individual offenders, identifying injustices and biases in the administration of justice, and supporting more basic and operational research on crime and the criminal justice system and the involvement of the community in crime control efforts. As the embodiment of that vision, NIJ has accomplished a great deal. It has succeeded in developing a body of knowledge on such important topics as hot spots, policing, violence against women, the role of firearms and drugs in crime, drug courts, and forensic DNA analysis. It has helped build the crime and justice research infrastructure. It has also widely disseminated the results of its research programs to help guide practice and policy. But its efforts have been severely hampered by a lack of independence, authority, and discretionary resources to carry out its mission.

Bender's Immigration Bulletin, 2007-07 Data Protection in EU and US Criminal Cooperation Els de Busser, 2009 The research in this doctoral thesis examines the protection of personal data in two relationships between judicial and law enforcement authorities of the EU Member States, including Europol and Eurojust, on the one hand, and the US on the other hand. The book provides answers to the central question as to whether the EU complies with her own standards of data protection in these internal relations as well as in the transatlantic cooperation in criminal matters. The new framework decision on data protection in criminal matters that entered into force in early 2009 is a significant element in this study alongside the agreement concluded between the EU and the US on the mutual assistance in criminal matters, of which the entry into force is equally planned for 2009. The book also reflects on the policy proposals of the EU on justice and home affairs for the period of 2010-2014.
