Shaping the Futures of Work Nilanjan Raghunath,2021-09-15 The widespread belief that tech savvy educated millennials are well positioned to handle the challenges of the fourth industrial revolution is unfounded It does not fully grasp the reality of a flux society where relevant technological skills and knowledge are continuously changing no one is permanently tech savvy Millennials like other generations face the challenge of needing to continually reskill This has compounded their struggle to begin their careers at a point when there is no longer any guarantee of lifetime employment or retirement at a set age

Shaping the Futures of Work is a timely sociological exploration of the impact of technological innovations on employment. Nilanjan Raghunath proposes that stakeholders such as states, enterprises and citizens hold equally important roles in ensuring that people can adapt, innovate and thrive within conditions of flux. A promising model focuses on collaboration and proactive governance. While good governance includes citizen engagement, proactive governance goes one step further, creating inclusive policies, roadmaps and infrastructure for social and economic progress. This book reveals that lifelong learning and adaptability are imperative even for well-educated professionals. Using Singapore and Singaporean millennials as a case study, Raghunath examines proactive governance and delivers research and analysis to elucidate career trajectories, pointing to a work ethic that aims to engage with technological futures. Looking at local and global sociological literature to confirm the need for proactive governance, Shaping the Futures of Work suggests that Singaporean millennials and professionals around the world need to better prepare themselves for flux, risk, failure and reinvention for career mobility.
