WTO Panel Report on China's Trading Restrictions

Background: Although there is agreement that people's health is a legitimate objective, there is a better understanding of how programs to reduce consumption of tobacco and alcohol should be implemented. The agreement is not intended to be a blanket prohibition on all trade, but a specific agreement that China should implement the program to reduce consumption of tobacco and alcohol in a manner that is consistent with international law. In the context of this agreement, a prohibition on the sale of tobacco and alcohol is not a violation of the agreement.
