Opportunity to Learn, Curriculum Alignment and Test Preparation Jaap Scheerens, 2016-08-30 This book provides a review of the effectiveness of Opportunity to Learn OTL operationalized as the association between OTL and student achievement In addition it presents an elaborate conceptual map in which OTL is regarded as part of a larger concept of curriculum alignment Major components of this framework are national goals and standards school curricula formative tests textbooks actual delivery of content as part of teaching and summative tests and examinations Alignment between educational goals intended and implemented curricula and educational outcomes is considered an important prerequisite for effective education. The expectation is that better alignment leads to better student performance. The concept of OTL is commonly used to compare content covered as part of the implemented curriculum with student achievement. As such, it is to be seen as a facet of the broader concept of alignment. As it comes to enhancing OTL in educational policy and practice, proactive curriculum development is compared to a more retroactive orientation. Legitimate forms of test and examination preparation belong to this retroactive orientation and are seen as favorable conditions for optimizing OTL. This book reviews the research evidence on the effects of OTL on student achievement by means of detailed descriptions of key empirical studies, a review of meta-analyses, a vote count, syntheses of 51 empirical studies conducted between 1995 and 2015, and a secondary analysis based on TIMSS 2011 and PISA 2012 data. It concludes that the effect size of OTL at about 30 is modest but comparable in size to other effectiveness-enhancing conditions in schooling. The final chapter of the book provides suggestions for educational policy and practice to further optimize OTL.

Test Fraud Neal Kingston, Amy Clark, 2014-06-27. There has been an increase in awareness and perhaps occurrence of individual and organized cheating on tests. Recent reports of widespread problems with state student accountability tests and teacher certification testing have raised questions about the very validity of assessment programs. While there are several books that specifically detail the issues of test security, cheating on assessments, few outline the statistical procedures used for detecting various types of potential test fraud and the associated research findings. Without a significant research literature base, the new generation of researchers will have little opportunity or incentive to improve on existing methods. Enlisting a variety of experts and scholars in different fields of testing, this edited volume expands on the current literature base by including examples of detailed research findings arrived at by statistical methodology. It also provides a synthesis of the current state of the art with regard to the statistical detection of testing infidelity, particularly for large-scale assessments. By presenting methods currently used by testing organizations and research on new methods, the volume offers an important forum for expanding the literature in this area.

No One Left Standing Michele Wages, 2016-11-14. Every public school student in the U.S. will experience various types of testing each year. For decades, the purpose and quality of such testing, the time it takes to administer and take the test, and how the data is used are the topic of discussion among students, parents, educators, and policymakers Those supporting the importance of testing assume that more assessment improves student achievement and that the pros of testing outweigh their perceptions of the additional costs Those against excessive testing believe that schools are sacrificing learning time in order to test or prepare for the test They also believe that reduced learning time of non tested subjects occurs and more time is given to those students that are performing right below the proficiency score or bubble kids instead of developing every student s full potential Testing in U S public schools is out of control The stress and pressures for all involved have effects that are not even measurable in most instances Is this really the best thing for our schools Are there alternative measures that may serve our future in a better way Will the rewrite of NCLB be enough
