Student Financing of Higher Education Donald Heller,Claire Callender,2013-06-07 The financing of higher education is undergoing great change in many countries around the world In recent years many countries are moving from a system where the costs of funding higher education are shouldered primarily by taxpayers through government subsidies to one where students pay a larger share of the costs There are a number of factors driving these trends including A push for massification of higher education in the recognition that additional revenue streams are required above and beyond those funds available from governments in order to achieve higher participation rates Macroeconomic factors which lead to constraints on overall government revenues Political factors which manifest in demands for funding of over services thus restricting the funding available for higher tertiary education A concern that the returns to higher education accrue primarily to the individual rather than to society and thus students should bear more of the burden of paying for it This volume will help to contribute to an understanding of how these trends occur in various countries and regions around the world and the impact they have on higher education institutions students and society as a whole With contributions for the UK USA South Africa and China this vital new book gives a truly global picture of the rapidly changing situation diversity Rather than taking diversity as fixed and rooted in nature we explore how diversity is imagined and lived in particular contexts on and off campus Breaking a Rainbow, Building a Nation Rekgotsofetse Chikane,2018-10-01 arguments that effectively address South Africa's unemployment, race problems and lack of education. Rautenbach examines the fundamental problem of rent seeking to which he proposes two antidotes: the free market and decentralisation of government. Along the way he tackles holy cows such as affirmative action, trade unions, labour law and welfare payments. He also addresses contentious topics such as racism, white privilege, political correctness, state funding of higher education and mounting evidence that trade unions substantially suppress employment growth. Written by a labour lawyer with a proven track record in a range of policy issues, South Africa Can Work speaks effectively to a cross section of readers of all disciplines and brings sorely needed good news. Financing Higher Education Worldwide D. Bruce Johnstone, Pamela N. Marcucci, 2010-06-07 Examines the universal phenomenon of cost sharing in higher education where financial responsibility shifts from governments and taxpayers to students and families. Growing costs for education far outpace public revenue streams that once supported it. Even with financial aid and scholarships defraying some of these costs, students are responsible for a greater share of the cost of higher education. Shows how economically diverse countries all face similar cost sharing challenges. While cost sharing is both politically and ideologically debated, it is imperative to implement it for the financial health of colleges and universities. From publisher description. Homeschooling High School Shirley Erwee, 2014-08-28 Prospective homeschoolers are parents looking for an alternative to the mainstream educational system for their offspring. But homeschooling children at high school level strikes fear into even the most dedicated of homeschoolers. They need information and answers to their questions. And with the current educational and unemployment problems in South Africa, young people need clear direction and guidance to help them achieve their goals. In addition to exploring the popular ways to gaining a recognised matric certificate outside the formal school system, Homeschooling High School also challenges readers to rethink their values, particularly the value they place on certification and to consider some unconventional or alternative paths to success. In a clearly presented format, the book includes advice on legal matters, identifying appropriate courses, sourcing study material, tips on entrepreneurship, financing tertiary studies and the testimonies of successful homeschooled graduates. Homeschooling High School is a comprehensive guide to plotting a path through high school and beyond. Accessing Post-School Studies Venicia McGhie & Madge du Preez, 2017-12-01 Accessing Post-School Studies A student's GPS to successful learning makes a valuable contribution to often problematic and pertinent South African higher education issues such as student access and success, student learning, student support and student engagement. In this regard, the authors draw on the works of higher education theorists such as Kuh, Tinto, Marton and Sij. The book is primarily a helpful resource for South African learners in school, students at universities, life orientation teachers as well as parents of prospective university students. It will especially assist students to adapt to the university environment. Prof Victor N. Teise, Sol Plaatje University, Kimberley, South Africa. Higher Education in Regional and City Development: The Free State, South Africa 2012 OECD, 2012-02-14 This publication explores a range of helpful policy measures and institutional reforms to mobilise higher education for regional development in the Free State of South Africa
