

ALL ABOUT... Puffer Fish

The puffer fish lives in warm coastal waters. There are about 20 different species of puffer fish. They have big eyes and a long snout but are usually difficult to identify unless they feel threatened.

When sensing danger, a puffer fish can inflate its body very quickly, revealing poisonous spikes. These spikes are toxic to humans. The spikes are also toxic to some fish that try to eat puffer fish! Sharks, however, are immune to the venom.

Answer the questions in complete sentences.

1) Where would you find a puffer fish?

2) What do puffer fish do when they sense danger?

3) Why are puffer fish difficult to identify unless threatened?

4) Do you like the puffer fish's unique form of protection? Why/Why not?

Second Grade Lessons For Nonfiction:

Nonfiction Craft Lessons JoAnn Portalupi, Ralph J. Fletcher, 2001 Writing nonfiction represents a big step for most students. Most young writers are not intimidated by personal narrative fiction or even poetry but when they try to put together a teaching book report or persuasive essay they often feel anxious and frustrated. JoAnn Portalupi and Ralph Fletcher believe that young nonfiction writers supply plenty of passion, keen interest, and wonder. Teachers can provide concrete strategies to help students scaffold their ideas as they write in this challenging genre. Like the authors' best-selling Craft Lessons Teaching Writing K-8, this book is divided into sections for K-2, 3-4, and middle school grades 5-8. These divisions reflect various differences between emerging, competent, and fluent writers. In each section, you'll find a generous collection of craft lessons directed at the genre that's most appropriate for that particular age. In the K-2 section, for example, a number of craft lessons focus on the all-about or concept book. In the 3-4 section, there are several lessons on biography. In the 5-8 section, a series of lessons addresses expository writing. Throughout the book, each of the 80 lessons is presented on a single page in an easy-to-read format. Every lesson features three teaching guidelines: Discussion (A brief look at the reasons for teaching the particular element of craft specifically in a nonfiction context), How to Teach It (Concrete language showing exactly how a teacher might bring this craft element to students in writing conferences or a small group setting), and Resource Material (Specific book or text referred to in the craft lesson, including trade books or a piece of student writing in the Appendixes). This book will help students breathe voice into lifeless dump-truck writing and improve their nonfiction writing by making it clearer, more authoritative, and more organized. Nonfiction Craft Lessons gives teachers a wealth of practical strategies to help students grow into strong writers as they explore and explain the world around them. Be sure to look at the When Students Write videotapes too.

Nonfiction Mentor Texts Lynne R. Dorfman, Rose Cappelli, 2009 Guides teachers through a variety of projects, samples, and classroom anecdotes that demonstrate how teachers can help students become more effective writers of good nonfiction.

Literacy Work Stations Debbie Diller, 2003 This book will help teachers solve the dilemma: What does the rest of my class do while I'm working with a small reading group? Debbie Diller offers practical suggestions for over a dozen literacy work stations that link to instruction and make preparation and management easy for teachers. Learn how to set up work stations, how to manage them, and how to keep them going throughout the year. Each chapter includes how to introduce each station, materials to include at each station, what to model, how to solve problems, how to differentiate, how to assess, and keep students accountable. Reflection questions for professional development. Materials in both English and Spanish are provided in the extensive resource section. Throughout the book, the author has included photos of literacy workstations from a variety of classrooms in which she has worked to illustrate the methods discussed in the text.
