

3.2 You-mix Cubes A Solidify Understanding Task

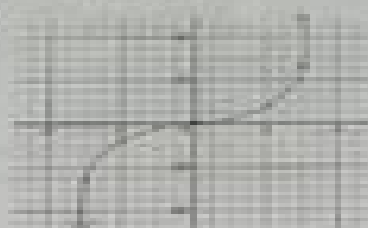

In Scott's March Madness, the function that was generated by the sum of terms in a quadratic function was called a cubic function. Linear functions, quadratic functions, and cubic functions are all in the family of functions called polynomials, which include functions of higher powers too. In this task, we will explore more about cubic functions to help us to see some of the similarities and differences between cubic functions and quadratic functions.

To begin, let's take a look at the most basic cubic function, $f(x) = x^3$. It is technically a degree 3 polynomial because the highest exponent is 3, but it is called a cubic function because these functions are often used to model volumes. This is like quadratic functions which are degree 2 polynomials that are called quadratic after the Latin word for squares. Scott's March Madness showed that linear functions have a constant rate of change, quadratic functions have a linear rate of change, and cubic functions have a quadratic rate of change.

1. Use a table to verify that $f(x) = x^3$ has a quadratic rate of change.

x	1	2	3	4
$f(x)$	1	8	27	64

2. Graph $f(x) = x^3$.

2nd order, 1st order, 1st order
rate of change
 $f'(x)$
