Language Issues in Comparative Education Carol Benson,Kimmo Kosonen,2013-06-13 This volume compiles a unique yet complementary collection of chapters that take a strategic comparative perspective on education systems regions of the world and or ethnolinguistic communities with a focus on non dominant languages and cultures in education Comparison and contrast within each article and across articles illustrates the potential for using home languages which in many cases are in non dominant positions relative to other languages in society in inclusive multilingual and multicultural forms of education The 22 authors demonstrate how bringing non dominant languages and cultures into schooling has liberatory transformative potential for learners from ethnolinguistic communities that have previously been excluded from access to quality basic education The authors deal not only with educational development in specific low income and emerging countries in Asia Afghanistan Bangladesh Cambodia the Philippines Thailand and Vietnam Latin America Guatemala and Mexico and Africa Mozambique Senegal and Tanzania but also with efforts to reach marginalized ethnolinguistic communities in high income North American countries Canada and the USA In the introductory chapter the editors highlight common and cross cutting themes and propose appropriate sometimes new terminology for the discussion of linguistic and cultural issues in education particularly in low income multilingual countries Likewise using examples from additional countries and contexts the three final chapters address cross cutting issues related to language and culture in educational research and development The authors and editors of this volume share a common commitment to comparativism in their methods and analysis and aim to contribute to more inclusive and relevant education for all A richly textured collection which offers a powerful vision of the possible now and in the future Alamin Mazrui Rutgers State University of New Jersey USA This book takes the local perspective of non dominant language communities in arguing for a multilingual habitus in educational development Benson and Kosonen masterfully extend theories and clarify terminology that is inclusive of the non dominant contexts described here Ofelia Garc a City University of New York USA

Project-Based Learning Applied to the Language Classroom Juliana Franco Tavares/ Louise Emma

Potter, 2018-03-05 In Project Based Learning Applied to the Language Classroom the authors propose a way to develop PBL in the language classrooms taking into account all of the obstacles and specifics involved in teaching a foreign language. It is about teaching English as a second or foreign language using Project Based Learning (PBL). We approach this combination because many people seem to think about implementing PBL in their language classes and ask questions about how to do it but feel that there aren't enough materials based on this methodology. In fact, most researchers and writers we have come across discuss the applications of PBL in the students' mother tongue to subjects such as Math, History, Literature, Social Studies, and Science. However, there are few published works about the specifics of PBL in foreign language classes. Besides, it seems obvious to us that the main difficulty in developing projects in a second or foreign language lies exactly on the fact that communication may be hindered when students do not have enough knowledge in the target language.
