China's Banking Law and the National Treatment of Foreign-Funded Banks Wei Wang, 2016-05-23 This book assesses new developments in and reform of China's banking law system following its accession of the WTO. It focuses on the relationship between GATS WTO national treatment obligations and China's banking law. Tracing the history of national treatment in China, the book compares the treatment of foreign funded banks with the treatment of Chinese funded banks and examines the structure and shortcomings of the existing banking law framework in China. Offering suggestions as to how the framework could be restructured and analysing the economic and political bases of an integrated banking law framework, the book argues that reorganization would bring about greater consistency with GATS WTO national treatment requirements. The book also explores the ambiguous definition of prudential carve out, the subtle relationship between GATS national treatment and market access based on WTO cases, national treatment clauses in China's bilateral investment treaties and special treatment on banking in China's free trade agreements. This volume is a valuable resource for academics and students as well as professionals and policy makers working in the field of banking, WTO, Chinese law and foreign trade. Moody's International Manual, 1997 Monthly Catalog of United States Government Publications, 2000 Manuals Combined: U.S. Marine Corps Basic Reconnaissance Course (BRC) References, Over 5 300 total pages. MARINE RECON Reconnaissance units are the commander's eyes and ears on the battlefield. They are task organized as a highly trained six man team capable of conducting specific missions behind enemy lines. Employed as part of the Marine Air Ground Task Force, reconnaissance teams provide timely information to the supported commander to shape and influence the battlefield. The varying types of missions a Reconnaissance team conduct depends on how deep in the battle space they are operating. Division Reconnaissance units support the close and distant battlespace while Force Reconnaissance units conduct deep reconnaissance in support of a landing force. Common missions include but are not limited to: Plan, coordinate and conduct amphibious ground reconnaissance and surveillance to observe, identify and report enemy activity and collect other information of military significance. Conduct specialized surveying to include underwater reconnaissance and/or demolitions, beach permeability and topography, routes, bridges, structures, urban/rural areas, helicopter landing zones (LZ), parachute drop zones (DZ), aircraft forward operating sites and mechanized reconnaissance missions. When properly task organized with other forces, equipment or personnel assist in specialized engineer, radio and other special reconnaissance missions. Infiltrate mission areas by necessary means to include surface, subsurface and airborne operations. Conduct Initial Terminal Guidance (ITG) for helicopters, landing craft, parachutists, air delivery and re-supply. Designate and engage selected targets with organic weapons and force fires to support battlespace shaping. This includes designation and terminal guidance of precision guided munitions. Conduct post strike reconnaissance to determine and report battle damage assessment on a specified target or area. Conduct limited scale raids and ambushes.  researchers there is a rich technical literature covering many years of primary research in speech However this literature is not necessarily applicable to the needs of business people application developers and students who are interested in learning about the practical uses of speech technology On the other hand while existing introductory resources cover the basic mechanics of development of application development as well as aspects of the voice user interface they don t go far enough in dealing with the details that have to be taken into account to make spoken dialog systems successful in practice What s missing is information in between the in depth technical literature and the more introductory development resources The goal of this book is to provide information for anyone who wants to take the next step beyond the basics of current speech applications but isn t yet ready to dive into the technical literature It is hoped that this book will help project managers application developers and students gain a fuller and more complete understanding of spoken dialog technology and the practical aspects of developing and deploying spoken dialog applications Federal Register ,1994-10-26 Mergent
