

The book cover features a close-up of two women's faces in profile, facing each other. The woman on the left has blonde hair and is looking up at the woman on the right, who has dark hair. They appear to be in a boat, with a white railing visible in the foreground. The background is a bright, hazy sky with soft, glowing light effects.

Stuck in the Shallow End, updated edition Jane Margolis, 2017-02-24 Why so few African American and Latino students study computer science updated edition of a book that reveals the dynamics of inequality in American schools The number of African Americans and Latino students receiving undergraduate and advanced degrees in computer science is disproportionately low And relatively few African American and Latino high school students receive the kind of institutional encouragement educational opportunities and preparation needed for them to choose computer science as a field of study and profession In Stuck in the Shallow End Jane Margolis and coauthors look at the daily experiences of students and teachers in three Los Angeles public high schools an overcrowded urban high school a math and science magnet school and a well funded school in

,2024-12-12 Human flourishing depends upon the mental health of the individuals Throughout history various cultural traditions have established and practiced diverse strategies to maintain their community members mental health treat their mental illness and enhance their well being They range from spiritual disciplines religious rituals and philosophical training to communal activities educational instructions and community support It is noteworthy that aesthetic objects and activities are frequently integrated into these strategies They include visual arts music dance story telling theatre and occasions and events made special by certain foods drinks decorations clothes and fragrance This long held and widely practiced integration of aesthetics into promotion of mental health testifies to the power of the aesthetic to affect the well being of humans and their communities The world s major philosophies and religious traditions have recognized this power of the aesthetic For example Plato s proposed censorship of the arts in his utopian Republic indicates his acknowledgement of and a respect for the power of the arts to mold the citizens psyche and character Confucianism also utilizes arts and rituals to promote moral virtues Finally Buddhism teaches the cultivation of mindful practice for human flourishing by developing an alternative relationship with present moment experience such as suffering and distress Today the most dominant methods of treating mental illness in the West are psychotherapy psychology and psychiatry methodologies and practices established and developed in Europe since the nineteenth century Ever since the birth of art and poetry its purpose has been to inspire stir and move people This handbook addresses the valuable role aesthetics plays in psychotherapy and psychiatry exploring both theory and practice 2014 White Paper on Korean Unification Ministry of Unification (South Korea),2014-02-01
