revenues of the state Nikolaas Gerard Pierson,1912 Principles of Economics: pt. III. Production. pt. IV. The Principles and Practice of Constraint Programming - CP

2004 Mark Wallace, 2005-01-12 The 10th International Conference on the Principles and Practice of Constraint Programming CP 2003 was held in Toronto Canada during September 27 October 1 2004 Information about the conference can be found on the Web at <http://ai.uwaterloo.ca/cp2004> Constraint programming CP is about problem modelling problem solving programming optimization software engineering databases visualization user interfaces and anything to do with satisfying complex constraints It reaches into mathematics operations research artificial intelligence algorithms complexity modelling and programming languages and many aspects of computer science Moreover CP is never far from applications and its successful use in industry and government goes hand in hand with the success of the CP research community

Constraint programming continues to be an exciting, flourishing and growing research field. As the annual CP conference proceedings amply witness, this year from 158 submissions we chose 46 to be published in full in the proceedings. Instead of selecting one overall best paper we picked out four distinguished papers though we were tempted to select at least 12 such papers. In addition we included 16 short papers in the proceedings; these were presented as posters at CP 2004. This volume includes summaries of the four invited talks of CP 2004. Two speakers from industry were invited. However these were no ordinary industrial representatives but two of the leading researchers in the CP community: Helmut Simonis of Parc Technologies until its recent takeover by Cisco Systems and Jean-François Puget, Director of Optimization Technology at ILOG. The other two invited speakers are also big movers and shakers in the research community. Business Aspects of Web Services Christof Weinhardt, Benjamin Blau, Tobias Conte, Lilia Filipova-Neumann, Thomas Meinel, Wibke Michalk, 2011-11-10

Driven by maturing Web service technologies and the wide acceptance of the service-oriented architecture paradigm, the software industry's traditional business models and strategies have begun to change. Software vendors are turning into service providers. In addition, in the Web service market a multitude of small and highly specialized providers offer modular services of almost any kind and economic value is created through the interplay of various distributed service providers that jointly contribute to form individualized and integrated solutions. This trend can be optimally catalyzed by universally accessible service orchestration platforms, service value networks (SVNs) which are the underlying organizational form of the coordination mechanisms presented in this book. Here the authors focus on providing comprehensive business-oriented insights into today's trends and challenges that stem from the transition to a service-led economy. They investigate current and future Web service business models and provide a framework for Web service value networks. Pricing mechanism basics are introduced and applied to the specific area of SVNs. Strategies for platform providers are analyzed from the viewpoint of a single provider and so are pricing mechanisms in service value networks which are optimal from a network perspective. The extended concept of pricing Web service derivatives is also illustrated. The presentation concludes with a vision of how Web service markets in the future could be structured and what further developments can be expected to happen. This book will be of interest to researchers in business development and practitioners such as managers of SMEs in the service sector as well as computer scientists familiar with Web technologies. The book's comprehensive content provides readers with a thorough understanding of the organizational, economic, and technical implications of dealing with Web services as the nucleus of modern business models which can be applied to Web services in general and Web service value networks specifically.
