"Shall I compare thee to a summer's day?"

By William Shakespeare

Shall I compare thee to a summer's day?
Thou art more lovely and more temperate:
Rough winds do shake the darling buds of May,
And summer's lease hath all too short a date:
Sometime too hot the eye of heaven shines,
And often is his gold complexion dimm'd;
And every fair from fair sometime declines,
By chance or nature's changing course untrimm'd;
But thy eternal summer shall not fade
Nor lose possession of that fair thou owest;
Nor shall Death brag thou wander'st in his shade,
When in eternal lines to time thou growest:
So long as men can breathe or eyes can see,
So long lives this and this gives life to thee.

Alessandro Serpieri,2018-05-01 This volume presents for the first time in English a selection of seminal studies originally published in Italian on the dramatic potential of Shakespeare s Sonnets providing a crucial contribution to a recently revived debate on their inherent dramatic dimension These studies long antedate the recent attention internationally dedicated to the formal and semiotic functions of the communicative structure of the sonnets providing the basis for a new perception of their peculiar capacity to perform speech acts within dramatically defined situations The first longest section is dedicated to a discussion of the so called Sonnets of Immortality where the poet struggles with Time over the future of the fair youth providing the argumentative premise upon which issues of mortality and loss running through the whole collection are defined in the agonistic terms of human defiance of Time s destructive power There follow two essays devoted to Sonnets 33 and 29 and to the last sonnets for the young friend respectively Here the poet abandons the battlefield of human mortality and engages with the tensions and conflicts of affection and moral duty against the backdrop of an intrinsically conflicting world model showing a medieval symbolic universe traversed by incipient yet radical sceptical stances These poems interlace fictionality and biography constructing a lyrical drama where the I poet features as an extraordinarily artificial yet all too real voice Practice and Learn: 4th Grade Dona Herweck Rice,1999-06 Everything kids need to know to succeed in 4th grade Skills reinforce grammar reading spelling writing and math
