Essential Questions in Adolescent Literacy Jill Lewis, 2009-05-04 In each chapter of this unique volume an exemplary teacher collaborates with a prominent scholar to present real world strategies for putting literacy research to work in grades 5-12. These lively dialogues tackle key questions in adolescent literacy including issues of motivation, critical thinking skills, content area writing, differentiated instruction, assessment, English language learning, and technology. Suggestions for incorporating adolescents out of school literacies and working with reading specialists and coaches show how to build connections between the classroom and wider communities. In-depth portraits of challenges and successes in the classroom, practical instructional tips, and stimulating questions for reflection make the book a valuable resource for inservice and preservice teachers.

Pearson's Magazine, 1922 Vol 49 no 9 Sept 1922 accompanied by a separately paged section entitled ERA electronic reactions of Abrams. Handbook of Reading Disability Research Anne McGill-Franzen, Richard Allington, 2010-09-17 Bringing together a wide range of research on reading disabilities, this comprehensive Handbook extends current discussion and thinking beyond a narrowly defined psychometric perspective. Emphasizing that learning to read proficiently is a long-term developmental process involving many interventions of various kinds, all keyed to individual developmental needs, it addresses traditional questions: What is the nature or causes of reading disabilities? How are reading disabilities assessed? How should reading disabilities be remediated? To what extent is remediation possible, but from multiple or alternative perspectives? Taking incursions into the broader research literature represented by linguistic and anthropological paradigms, as well as psychological and educational research, the volume is on the front line in exploring the relation of reading disability to learning and language, to poverty and prejudice, and to instruction and schooling. The editors and authors are distinguished scholars with extensive research experience and publication records and numerous honors and awards from professional organizations representing the range of disciplines in the field of reading disabilities. Throughout their contributions are contextualized within the framework of educators struggling to develop concrete instructional practices that meet the learning needs of the lowest achieving readers.
