Depicting the Late Ottoman Empire in Turkish

Autobiographies Philipp Wirtz, 2017-03-16 The period between the 1880s and the 1920s was a time of momentous changes in the Ottoman Empire. It was also an age of literary experiments of which autobiography forms a part. This book analyses Turkish autobiographical narratives describing the part of their authors' lives that was spent while the Ottoman Empire still existed. The texts studied in this book were written in the cultural context of the Turkish Republic which went to great lengths to disassociate itself from the empire and its legacy. This process has only been criticised and partially reversed in very recent times. The resurging interest in autobiographical texts dealing with the old days by the Turkish reading public being part of a wider renewed regard for Ottoman legacies. Among the analysed texts are autobiographies by writers, journalists, soldiers and politicians including classics like Halide Edip Adıvar and Evket S. Reyhan Aydemir but also texts by authors virtually unknown to Western readers such as Ahmed Emin Yalman. While the official Turkish republican discourse went towards a dismissal of the imperial past, autobiographical narratives offer a more balanced picture. From the earliest memories and personal origins of the authors to the conflict and violence that overshadowed private lives in the last years of the Ottoman Empire, this book aims at showing examples of how the authors painted what one of them called images of a past world.

Memory, Muses, Memoir Deb Everson Borofka, 2009-12 Why is the memoir genre so important? What is it that drives us to tell our own stories? The ancient Greek myth of Goddess Memory and her daughters, the Muses, offers new ways to re-enter the stories of our lives and shape them in surprising ways. Mnemosyne's birthing of the Muses underscores her commitment to express all of the facets of her personal story: grief, joy, love, body, breath, history, spirituality, reverie and humor. The memoirist follows Mnemosyne's imaginal lineage in crafting all memoirs. Memories live in matter in the very cells of our bodies. Writing our life stories allows us to consider the content of our experiences, the plurality of perspectives from which we can choose to shape them and the use that we want to make of them We may choose to write for many reasons psychological physical and cultural healing being just a few This book suggests the exploration of an imaginable field is possible when we look at how figures from Greek mythology continue to inspire contemporary life writing
