lower have thus far made but partial and insufficient contributions toward the civic knowledge and idealism that our country with its complex economic and political life certainly needs These schools do achieve much in general education but of purposive civic education they give little and that little is too often made futile by its formalism or wasted by its puerility America needs more and better education for citizenship to that proposition all will give ready assent Many commissions are studying ways and means of civic and other forms of social education Special efforts are being made everywhere in teacher training institutions to inspire and equip regular or special teachers for this difficult work Philanthropy finances the scouting education of the Boy Scout movement in large part because of its promising contributions to good citizenship The exactions of the war and the economic perturbations consequent on the war have forced us to see that our political institutions serviceable as they have become are not fully equal to the social loads they must carry Hence the current varied and intense aspirations for more extended and more scientific civic education in schools especially those that claim our children from their twelfth to their eighteenth years Statesmen and other students of social life are insistent in their demands Progressive educators are generally awake to the need About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works
