Transformation I don't care what they think was my favorite line to say Rebellious prideful and determined to control every situation and event in my life I left my father's house at the age of seventeen to attend college brokenhearted angry and full of rage You see my childhood was one of abuse incest domestic violence and an inner rage that would one day lead to suicide or homicide or both The children in the families we grew up with were suffering the same torment so I thought this was normal To witness beatings violence pain and anguish was my norm Silence was the pattern of behavior that was taught to me and my siblings Don't let anybody know what was happening behind our four walls These walls closed in around my heart and life in the years to come After college I joined the military I was an adult now I told myself as I began years of drinking and seducing whomever I chose I was Navy all the way a man in every port and I don't care what they think The next twenty plus years would not be any better as I went from relationship to relationship looking for something but what was I looking for Why was my heart so hard and cold Why did I keep doing the same things Finally the deep pain despair and heartache along with a probable addiction to alcohol led to thoughts of suicide was this the answer I was seeking If you have ever asked yourself these questions or if this story and struggle sounds vaguely familiar then read this book to understand the answers I found in Jesus Christ May this story be used to bring all glory to God and freedom for all who dare to read and be transformed

Twelve Nights at Rotter House J.W. Ocker, 2019-10-29 Felix Allsey is a travel writer with a keen eye for the paranormal and he's carved out a unique if only slightly lucrative niche for himself in nonfiction he writes travelogues of the country's most haunted places after haunting them himself When he convinces the owner of the infamous Rotterdam Mansion to let him stay on the premises for 13 nights he believes he's finally found the location that will bring him a bestseller As with his other gigs he sets rules for himself no leaving the house for any reason refrain from outside contact and sleep during the day When Thomas Ruth Felix's oldest friend and fellow horror film obsessive joins him on the project the two dance around a recent and unspeakably painful rough patch in their friendship but eventually fall into their old rhythms of dark humor and movie trivia That's when things start going wrong screams from upstairs figures in the thresholds and more than what should be in any basement Felix realizes the book he's writing and his very state of mind is tilting from nonfiction into all out horror and the shocking climax answers a question that's been staring these men in the face all along In Rotter House who's haunting who

The novel begins with Richard Papen, a bright but troubled young man, arriving at Hampden College. Richard is immediately drawn to the group of students who call themselves the Classics Club. The club is led by Henry Winter, a brilliant and charismatic young man. Henry is obsessed with Greek mythology and philosophy, and he quickly draws Richard into his world. The other members of the Classics Club are equally as fascinating. Bunny Corcoran is a wealthy and spoiled young man who is always looking for a good time. Charles Tavis is a quiet and reserved young man who is deeply in love with Henry. Camilla Macaulay is a beautiful and intelligent young woman who is drawn to the power and danger of the Classics Club. The students are all deeply in love with Morrow, and they are willing to do anything to please him. Morrow is a complex and mysterious figure, and he seems to be manipulating the students for his own purposes. As the students become more involved with Morrow, they begin to commit increasingly dangerous acts. The Secret History is a exceptional and thrilling novel that will keep you speculating until the very end. The novel is a cautionary tale about the dangers of obsession and the power of evil.
