The Silence of Ghosts Jonathan Aycliffe, 2013-10-17 When the Blitz starts in London Dominic Lancaster injured out of service at the battle of Narvik accompanies his 10 year old sister Octavia to the family house on the shores of Ullswater in the Lake District Octavia is profoundly deaf but at night she can hear disturbing noises in the house When questioned by Dominic as to what she can hear she replies voices Two nights later she comes into his bedroom to tell him that the dead children in the house want them to leave And then Octavia falls mysteriously ill during her sickness she tells Dominic he must go to the attic There he releases an older darker evil that threatens the lives of Olivia and himself Praise for Naomi s Roomt A chilling story which gives the lie to any notion that supernatural horror is remotely theraputic Aycliffe has a fine touch The Independent Naomi s Room must rank among the finest of English ghost stories They certainly don t come any more dark and fearsome Newcastle Evening Chronicle Toni Morrison and the Queer Pleasure of Ghosts Juda Bennett, 2014-11-13

Toni Morrison and the Queer Pleasure of Ghosts radically intervenes in one of the most established and sacred topics in Toni Morrison scholarship love Moving beyond Morrison s representation of ghosts as the forgotten or occluded past Juda Bennett uncovers how Morrison imagines the spectral sphere as always already queer a provocation and challenge to heteronormativity with the ghost appearing as an active participant in disruptions of compulsory heterosexuality as a figure embodying closet desires or as a disembodied emanation that counterpoints homophobia From The Bluest Eye to Home Morrison s novels have included many queer ghosts that challenge our most cherished conceptions of love and speak to cultural anxieties about black sexualities gay marriage AIDS lesbian visibility and transgender identities Not surprisingly the scene stealing ghost Beloved appears at the very heart of this book but Bennett cautions against interpretative stasis inviting readers to break free of the stranglehold Beloved has had on imaginations so as not to miss the full force of Morrison s lifelong project to queer love Edinburgh Companion to the Arab Novel in English Nouri Gana, 2015-04-17 Opening up the field of diasporic Anglo Arab literature to critical debate this companion spans from the first Arab novel in 1911 to the resurgence of the Anglo Arabic novel in the last 20 years There are chapters on authors such as Ameen Rihani Ahdaf

Weird Fiction and Science at the Fin de Siècle Emily Alder, 2020-01-07. This book explores how nineteenth-century science stimulated the emergence of weird tales at the fin de siècle and examines weird fiction by British writers who preceded and influenced H.P. Lovecraft, the most famous author of weird fiction. From laboratory experiments, thermodynamics, and Darwinian evolutionary theory to psychology, Theosophy, and the new physics of atoms and forces, science illuminated supernatural realms with rational theories and practices. Changing scientific philosophies and questioning of traditional positivism produced new ways of knowing the world, fertile borderlands for fictional as well as real-world scientists to explore. Reading Robert Louis Stevenson's Strange Case of Dr Jekyll and Mr Hyde (1886) as an inaugural weird tale, the author goes on to analyse stories by Arthur Machen, Edith Nesbit, H.G. Wells, William Hope Hodgson, E. and H. Heron, and Algernon Blackwood to show how this radical fantasy mode can be scientific and how sciences themselves were often already weird. Johnson, 2009 Caribbean Ghostwriting addresses a question central to the fields of postcolonial feminist and African diasporic studies how are we to know the colonial past when the lives of colonized and enslaved people were largely written out of history Caribbean authors Michelle Cliff Maryse Conde and Dionne Brand address the silences and gaps of historiography by fleshing out overlooked historical figures in literary form These authors do not simply reconstruct lost lives but rather they foreground the tension between the real material traces of people's lives and the fact of their erasure In novels that are at once historical biographical and artistic they portray real but sparsely documented and therefore haunting histories through a strategy identifiable as ghostwriting Erica L. Johnson defines ghostwriting as an important genre of Caribbean literature through which authors literally ghostwrite stories for lost historical figures even while they poetically preserve the unspeakable nature of the archival lacunae their novels engage Erica L. The Mark on the Wall and Other Short Fiction Virginia Woolf, 2001 I shall never forget the day I wrote The Mark on the Wall all in a flash as if flying after being kept stone breaking for months The Unwritten Novel was the great discovery however That again in one second showed me how I could embody all my deposit of experience in a shape that fitted it I saw branching out of the tunnel I made when I discovered that method of approach Jacob's Room Mrs Dalloway etc How I trembled with excitement The thrill Woolf got from these stories is readily apparent to the reader She wrote them in defiance of convention with a heady feeling of liberation and with a clear sense that she was breaking new ground Indeed if she had not made her bold and experimental forays into the short story in the period leading up to the publication of Jacob's Room 1922 it seems certain that her arrival as a great modernist novelist would have been delayed Quirky unrestrained disturbing and surprising many of these stories particularly the early ones are essential to an understanding of Woolf's development as a writer. She thought some of her short fiction might be unprintable but happily she was mistaken. The Reparative

Impulse of Queer Young Adult Literature Angel Daniel Matos, 2024-10-01. The Reparative Impulse of Queer Young Adult Literature is a provocative meditation on emotion, mood, history, and futurism in the critique of queer texts created for younger audiences. Given critical demands to distance queer youth culture from narratives of violence, sadness, and hurt that have haunted the queer imagination, this volume considers how post-2000s YA literature and media negotiate their hopeful purview with a broader and ongoing history of queer oppression and violence. It not only considers the tactics that authors use in bridging a supposedly bad queer past with a better queer present but also offers strategies on how readers can approach YA reparatively given the field's attachments to normative capitalist and neoliberal frameworks. Central to Matos's argument are the use of historical hurt to spark healing and transformation, the implementation of disruptive imagery and narrative structures to challenge normative understandings of time and feeling, and the impact of intersectional thinking in reparative readings of queer youth texts. The Reparative Impulse of Queer Young Adult Literature shows how YA cultural productions are akin to the broader queer imagination in their ability to move and affect audiences and how these texts encapsulate a significant and enduring change in terms of how queerness is or can be read, structured, represented, and felt.
