Muscle

-Type I/muscle - twitch muscle fibers are needed for endurance activities like long-distance running and cycling, and need more aerobic energy.

Type II/muscle fast twitch muscle fibers need fast oxygen and are used in short-term, maximum force exertion like sprinting, jumping, and weight lifting.

resistance and weight training increases muscle fiber size, and strengthens and thickens connective tissues, resulting in larger muscle and great muscular strength and endurance.

Crackles: inner thigh muscle that runs between the pelvic bone and the iliac spine bone.

Gluteoemimus-muscle in the lower leg

Gluteus minimus- third of the four buttock muscles.

Gluteus maximus(the largest) + gluteus medius gluteus minimus + tensor fasciae latae(smallest)

Exercise science principles

1. Specificity - must exercise the specific body part, muscle, or sport movements and techniques that one wants to improve.
2. Adaption- the body adapts to exercise, so that with regular practice, certain activities become easier.
3. Overload- the body only responds beyond its normal level if new stimuli or additional pressures are introduced, improve athletic ability.
4. Individual differences- not everybody will attain the same results from the same training programs and levels.

5. Progression- must progress at a certain individual rate to get results.
6. Use/Disuse- use it or lose it.

Body Shape

1. Ectomorph: a long, narrow, thin shape with minimal fat. -long distance running, high jump
2. Endomorph: fat, pear-shaped, narrow shoulders, wide hips, small wrists and ankles, more fat on the torso, arms, and legs. Short-puffing and wrestling.
3. Mesomorph: muscular, often well-proportioned, wide shoulders and narrow hips, strong limbs, and little body fat. -gymnastics and swimming.

Perceptual motor abilities

1. Control precision - how well you handle
2. Rate control - reaction driving
3. Aiming: feeding
4. Response: orientation and choice reaction time - football-quarterbacking
5. Reaction time: sprinting
6. Manual dexterity- basketball-dribbling
7. Finger dexterity - typing
8. Arm-hand steadiness - surgery
9. Wrist and finger speed - speed-sterling

Physical proficiencies

1. Explosive strength -standing long-jumps
2. Static strength - weight lifting
3. Trunk strength - pole-vaulting
4. Extent flexibility - yoga
5. Dynamic flexibility -squat thrusts
6. Limb movement speed- javelin throwing
7. Stamina -marathon

Both gender participation and body contact, lighty and lower body strength- running, ultimate Frisbee, capture the flag

Lower upper body strength - team for skill level to prevent injury

Curriculum Study (Routledge Revivals) David Kirk, 2014-04-23 The Curriculum is the focal point for the study of educational practice. It is the area in which individual group and societal needs and interests meet and is consequently the source of much friction and contention. This book, first published in 1988, introduces students to some of the major points of debate in particular the role of curriculum based study in the development of physical education and the credibility of the subject as an educational activity. David Kirk emphasises the beneficial effects of physical education and suggests ways in which instructive programmes can be created. A practical and interesting title, this reissue will be of particular value to students and teachers of sport science and educational practitioners more generally. Cooperative Learning in Physical Education Ben

Dyson, Ashley Casey, 2012-05-31 Cooperative Learning is a dynamic instructional model that can teach diverse content to students at different grade levels with students working together in small structured heterogeneous groups to master subject content. It has a strong research tradition, is used frequently as a professional development tool in general education and is now emerging in physical education. This book defines Cooperative Learning in physical education and examines how to implement Cooperative Learning in a variety of educational settings. It explores Cooperative Learning in physical education from three main perspectives. The first context of learning provides descriptions of Cooperative Learning in different levels of education: elementary school, secondary school, and university physical education. The second, Cooperative Learning in the curriculum, offers case studies from teachers and researchers of their experiences of implementing Cooperative Learning within their own national context. The third perspective, key aspects of Cooperative Learning, examines how the different elements of the model have been foregrounded in efforts to enhance learning in physical education. As the only text to provide international perspectives from eight different countries of Cooperative Learning in physical education, this book is important reading for any student, researcher, or teacher with an interest in physical education, sport education, sport pedagogy, curriculum development, or methods for learning and teaching. Neurology Study Guide Teresella

Goodyear,Kathleen M. Armour,2016-11-10 There is evidence of considerable growth in the availability and use of digital technologies in physical education Yet we have scant knowledge about how technologies are being used by teachers and whether or how these technologies are optimising student learning This book makes a novel contribution by focusing on the ways in which teachers and teacher educators are attempting to use digital technologies in PE The book has been created using the innovative pedagogical cases framework Each case centres on a narrative written by a PE practitioner explaining how and why technology is used in their practice to advance and accelerate learning Each practitioner narrative is then analysed by a team of experts from different disciplines The aim is to offer a multi dimensional understanding of the possibilities and challenges of supporting young people s learning with digital technologies Each case concludes with a practitioner reflection to illustrate the links between theory research and practice Digital Technologies and Learning in Physical Education encourages critical reflection on the use of technologies in PE It is an essential resource for students on physical education kinesiology or sport science courses practitioners working in PE or youth sport and researchers interested in digital technologies and education

Learning Movements Hakan Larsson,2020-12-30 Contemporary ways of understanding human movements specifically movement learning are heavily dominated by individualistic dualistic and mechanistic perspectives These perspectives are individualistic in the sense that in research as well as in educational practice movements movers are typically decontextualized they are dualistic in the sense that the body is taken to be inhabited even governed by a rational mind which is not itself a part of that body and they are mechanistic in the sense that movements and movement learning can be calculated This approach has supported the dominance of a westernised and predominantly white masculinised and heteronormative view of able bodies embodiment and movements Hence it has contributed to marginalise not only other approaches and perspectives and individuals New research has evolved including new approaches and these held perspectives have been challenged by social and culturally sensitive holistic as well as pluralistic and dynamic organic perspectives of human movements and moving humans Examples of such research can be found in disciplines such as physical education and pedagogy ethnography philosophy and sociology Learning Movements New Perspectives of Movement Education provides the societal and epistemological background for these new approaches and will be essential in disseminating this knowledge to movement educators academics and researchers as well as professionals within education sports health and fitness dance outdoor activities etc and that it will spearhead new and inclusive practices within these settings
