The Somme Stations:

The Somme Stations Andrew Martin, 2011-03-03 WINNER OF THE ELLIS PETERS AWARD Superb Lancashire Evening Post Richly satisfying Sunday Telegraph On the first day of the Somme enlisted railwayman Jim Stringer lies trapped in a shell hole smoking cigarette after cigarette under the bullets and the blazing sun He calculates his chances of survival even before they departed for France a member of Jim's unit had been found dead During the stand off that follows Jim and his comrades must operate by night the vitally important trains carrying munitions to the Front through a ghostly landscape of shattered trees where high explosive and shrapnel shells rain down Close co operation and trust are vital Yet proof piles up of an enemy within and as a ferocious military policeman pursues his investigation into the original killing the finger of accusation begins to point towards Jim himself The real achievement of The Somme Stations is the bravura picture the reader is given of men in war a war receding in time as the last participants die but which Martin subtly allows to stand in for all conflicts Barry Forshaw Independent Praise for the Jim Stringer series Breathe in the heady mixture of smoke oil and steam and the odd spot of real ale and feel the crunch of cinders beneath your feet you're in historic railway territory again Manchester Evening News Finely honed crime novels with plotting as precise as a Swiss watch Daily Express This series is er really building up a head of steam Observer Readers love Jim Stringer railway detective It's hard to envisage anyone not warming to Jim Stringer Independent An unlikely sleuth ingenuous naive and a little anxious but an endearing narrator a solid bloke who'd be good company over a pint of stout down the pub Telegraph The best sleuth that 200 years of the railways have ever produced Independent on Sunday

German Coastal Radar Stations Winston Ramsey, Jean Paul Pallud, 2021-01-30 When German forces occupied the coastline of the English Channel in 1940 one of the measures undertaken to give early warning of attacks from the sea or air was to set up a line of radar stations Although this invisible screen was a passive defense it was a serious barrier that had to be neutralized for the Allied invasion to be launched in 1944 Planners at RAF Medmenham had established there the Central Interpretation Unit CIU to examine the results of aerial photography over the Continent and the unit prepared plans of every enemy radar site ready for briefing pilots undertaking pre invasion attacks Those once secret plans are now reproduced in this book alongside the wartime photography with comparison views of the sites today Where farmland has now reclaimed the sites little remains to be seen but on others there are still significant traces of a once powerful weapon in the German armory To set the scene Professor R V Jones the Assistant Director of Intelligence at the Air Ministry recounts the events leading up to the proposal to mount a raid on the radar site at Bruneval The site had what became known as a Würzburg and the idea was to dismantle and remove the critical parts of the unit to bring them back to Britain and hopefully at the same time capture the operators for interrogation

List of Bulletins of the Agricultural Experiment Stations for the Calendar Years ... and ..., 1902 Estuaries and Coasts Michael Elliott, Jean-Paul Ducrotoy, 1991 Narrow Gauge in the Ypres Sector Martin J B Farebrother, Joan S Farebrother, 2024-06-06

The Ypres sector of the Western Front was held predominantly by the British and Dominions Armies from 1914 to 1918 The Ypres Salient at the centre of this sector was one of the most intensively fought over single locations of the First World War By the end of 1917 the sector was full of railways dumps camps and other facilities Much was lost in the German advance in April 1918 but from September 1918 the German Army was driven eastwards until the Armistice Although Ypres and most of the forward areas are in Belgium much of the support area is in northern France In this book the meter gauge networks of both countries established before the First World War are examined with their uses and extensions during the War The build up of light 60cm gauge railways from 1916 to 1918 is described with an assessment of the contribution of both narrow gauges to the war effort After the war the light railways in this sector were generally used only for short term clearing up and salvage The meter gauge railways in Belgium were rebuilt or repaired Those in France had been less affected The story is followed to the closure of the last of these railways This book is a companion volume to those on the Arras Sector 2015 and the Somme Sector 2018 It refers to other previous works on British French and Belgian railways especially during the First World War but contains sufficient information to stand alone
