Resources in Education ,1994 Magneto-Optical Imaging Tom H. Johansen, Daniel V. Shantsev, 2012-12-06 Magneto Optical Imaging has developed rapidly over the last decade to emerge as a leading technique to directly visualise the static and dynamic magnetic behaviour of materials capable of following magnetic processes on the scale of centimeters to sub microns and at timescales from hours to nanoseconds The images are direct real time and give space resolved information such as ultrafast magnetic processes and revealing the motion of individual vortices in superconductors The book is a fully up to date report of the present status of the technique Hua, a Papuan Language of the Eastern Highlands of New Guinea John Haiman, 1980-01-01 There is no country in the world where as many different languages are spoken as in New Guinea approximately a fifth of the languages in the world Most of these so called Papuan languages seem to be unrelated to languages spoken elsewhere The present work is the first truly comprehensive study of such a language Hua The chief typological peculiarity of Hua is the existence of a medial verb construction used to conjoin clauses in compound and complex sentences Hua also shows a fundamental morphological distinction between coordinate and subordinate medial clauses the latter are not tense iconic the events they describe are not necessarily prior to the event described in later clauses Moreover their truth is always presupposed The distribution and behaviour of a post nominal suffix mo provides insights into the nature of topics conditional clauses and functional definitions of the parts of speech In phonology the central rules of assimilation are constrained by the universal hierarchy of sonority which may however be derived from binary features These are some of the areas in which the grammar of Hua is unusually perspicuous The present work aims at a standard of completeness such that it would be a useful reference work for research in almost any theoretical topic

Bowie, DMA, 2013-12-20 After terminating my tenure and positions as Trumpet Teacher Associate Director of Bands and Chairman of Instrumental Music at Florida A M University in 1980 I was bombarded with questions and often criticized on the wisdom of abandoning the pathway I had earned as heir apparent to the position of Director of Bands Rumors were also whispered that I was fired for involvement in questionable and unprofessional faculty student relationships I deliberately hesitated to answer such questions first because they could possibly be interpreted as my being critical of the people and the program that made it possible for me to develop whatever God given talents I possessed Second I chose to quietly accept said criticisms and dismiss the rumors to avoid giving them credibility by commenting on them one way or the other However I have always felt an obligation to provide the truth to the friends colleagues and fans that assisted in the realization of my professional pursuits at FAMU These questions and inquiries gradually subsided after my appointment as Chairman of Fine Arts at the University of North Florida four years later Thirty one years later the disturbing news from Orlando Florida announcing the death of Robert Champion a FAMU Drum Major renewed the urgency for me to address long standing and new questions on various aspects about FAMU s band The untimely death of Champion resulted allegedly from a brutal ritual of acceptance hazing on the occasion of the 2011 Orange Blossom Classic football game between the Florida A M and Bethune Cookman Universities Regrettably many supporters fans and former band members including myself had long feared such an occurrence would happen sooner or later I was similarly harassed as a freshman during the 1958 band season following the Orange Blossom Classic held in Miami In spite of my negative treatment I went on to become Band President and after graduating Associate Director of this esteemed organization Therefore I feel intimately familiar with the band and its history including the unsanctioned tradition of hazing and feel competent to voice my opinions on the question of hazing and on the current and future status of the FAMU band program Following the death of Mr Champion I again began receiving renewed calls visits and e mails inquiring of my thinking and position on the situation at hand After Dr Julian White Director of Bands was unceremoniously terminated over 150 former students encouraged me to seek the position of Director Obviously those encouraging me to do so did not factor in my advancing age or health status Nonetheless these renewed questions awakened the need and obligation for me to speak out and weigh in on long standing issues about the band and my reasons for abandoning it Accordingly the crisis of Mr Champion s death has created a renewed sense of urgency for me to finally speak out and describe how such issues led to my departure from the FAMU Marching Band It is hoped that this booklet will provide truthful answers to long standing questions and serve to explore a plethora of traditions and misconceptions about the band This writing is a recollection of my personal journey as a student participant and eventual Associate Director of this Band The reader is therefore afforded to share the author s perspective insight and self discovery during this time frame It is hoped that this booklet will positively assist in a similar societal discovery and serve as a deterrent to hazing violence and other punitive actions that have all but become standard codes of conduct on many college and university campuses Lenard C Bowie DMA Former Associate Director of Bands Florida A M University
