Andrew Holowchak, 2017-03-22 Much of the scholarship on Thomas Jefferson characterizes him as a consummate immoralist Yet he had a keen interest in morality and most of his reading when he was not immersed in politics was for moral study Jefferson once told his physician Vine Utley that he seldom went to sleep

without first reading something morally inspiring Some Jefferson scholars consider him at best a moral dilettante with incoherent views Others see him as a Stoic interested in virtue as measured by both intentions and outcomes who in later life became an Epicurean weighing pleasure versus ends Drawing on a careful reading of his writings and an examination of his known readings on morality this study argues that Jefferson developed early a consistent moral sense Stoical in essence and focused on his own moral improvement and maintained it throughout his life

Ethnic Conflict and Protest in Tibet and Xinjiang Ben Hillman, Gray Tuttle, 2016-04-05 Despite more than a decade of rapid economic development rising living standards and large scale improvements in infrastructure and services China's western borderlands are awash in a wave of ethnic unrest not seen since the 1950s Through on the ground interviews and firsthand observations the international experts in this volume create an invaluable record of the conflicts and protests as they have unfolded the most extensive chronicle of events to date The authors examine the factors driving the unrest in Tibet and Xinjiang and the political strategies used to suppress them They also explain why certain areas have seen higher concentrations of ethnic based violence than others Essential reading for anyone struggling to understand the origins of unrest in contemporary Tibet and Xinjiang this volume considers the role of propaganda and education as generators and sources of conflict It links interethnic strife to economic growth and connects environmental degradation to increased instability It captures the subtle difference between violence in urban Xinjiang and conflict in rural Tibet with detailed portraits of everyday individuals caught among the pressures of politics history personal interest and global movements with local resonance

Men of Letters in the Early Republic Catherine O'Donnell Kaplan, 2012-12-01 In the aftermath of the Revolutionary War after decades of intense upheaval and debate the role of the citizen was seen as largely political But as Catherine O'Donnell Kaplan reveals some Americans saw a need for a realm of public men outside politics. They believed that neither the nation nor they themselves could achieve virtue and happiness through politics alone. Imagining a different kind of citizenship, they founded periodicals, circulated manuscripts, and conversed about poetry, art, and the nature of man. They pondered William Godwin and Edmund Burke more carefully than they did candidates for local elections and insisted other Americans should do so as well. Kaplan looks at three groups in particular: the Friendly Club in New York City, which revolved around Elihu Hubbard Smith with collaborators such as William Dunlap and Charles Brockden Brown; the circle around Joseph Dennie, editor of two highly successful periodicals; and the Anthologists of the Boston Athenaeum. Through these groups, Kaplan demonstrates an enduring and influential model of the man of letters emerged in the first decade of the nineteenth century. The Literary

Review, 2012. Towards the Romantic Age. R. Neuhauser, 2012-12-06. Russian literature between 1750 and the romantic age presents a confusing picture. Various literary movements arose and existed side by side while new trends made themselves felt. At no other time in the history of Russian literature was there a similar influx of widely disparate literary and intellectual influences from the West. The complex evolution of literature is reflected in the area of literary classification. Period terms have been used in great variety yet without general agreement as to the extent or even the nature of the trends described. The essays of this study are devoted to two major literary trends of the 18th and early 19th century: sentimentalism and preromanticism. They aim to elucidate their evolution as well as at defining and describing the conceptual framework on which they rest. Since the 18th century did not draw a sharp line between translated and original literature, both have been included here. Literary, philosophical, and general cultural influences from the West were of considerable importance for Russian literature. The concepts, motifs, and themes which reached Russian writers in translations moulded their own original works. The 18th century witnessed the formation of an adequate literary language which culminated in Karamezin's style. The distinction of two stages in the development of sentimentalism as suggested here and the differentiation between both of them and a third literary trend, preromanticism, is an attempt to reflect adequately the rapid change in stylistic and poetic norms. The Teacher's Calendar, 1999-2000. Unbecoming Blackness. Antonio Lopez, 2012-11-26. 2014 Runner Up MLA Prize in United States Latina and Latino and Chicana and Chicano Literary and Cultural Studies. In Unbecoming Blackness, Antonio Lopez uncovers an important, otherwise unrecognized, century-long archive of literature and performance that reveals Cuban America as a space of overlapping Cuban and African diasporic experiences. Lopez shows how Afro-Cuban writers and performers in the U.S. align Cuban black and mulatto identities often subsumed in the mixed race and post-racial Cuban national imaginaries with the material and symbolic blackness of African Americans and other Afro-Latinas/os. In the works of Alberto O. Farrill, Eusebia Cosme R. Mulo Lachataer, and others, Afro-Cubanness articulates the African diasporic experience in ways that deprive negro and mulatto configurations of an exclusive link with Cuban nationalism. Instead what is invoked is an unbecoming relationship between Afro Cubans in the U S and their domestic black counterparts. The transformations in Cuban racial identity across the hemisphere represented powerfully in the literary and performance cultures of Afro Cubans in the U S provide the fullest account of a transnational Cuba one in which the Cuban American emerges as Afro Cuban American and the Latino as Afro Latino.

A Freedom Bought with Blood Jennifer C. James, 2012-09-01. In the first comprehensive study of African American war literature Jennifer James analyzes fiction poetry autobiography and histories about the major wars waged before the desegregation of the U S military in 1948. Examining literature about the Civil War the Spanish American Wars World War I and World War II James introduces a range of rare and understudied texts by writers such as Victor Daly F Grant Gilmore William Gardner Smith and Susie King Taylor. She argues that works by these as well as canonical writers such as William Wells Brown Paul Laurence Dunbar and Gwendolyn Brooks mark a distinctive contribution to African American letters. In establishing African American war literature as a long standing literary genre in its own right James also considers the ways in which this writing centered as it is on moments of national crisis complicated debates about black identity and African Americans claims to citizenship. In a provocative assessment James argues that the very ambivalence over the use of violence as a political instrument defines African American war writing and creates a compelling contradictory body of literature that defies easy summary.

William Congreve Howard Erskine-Hill, Alexander Lindsay, 2012-10-02. The Critical Heritage gathers together a large body of critical sources on major figures in literature. Each volume presents contemporary responses to a writer's work enabling student and researcher to read the material themselves.

Lee and His Generals Lawrence Lee Hewitt, Thomas E. Schott, 2012-06-25. A legendary professor at Louisiana State University T. Harry Williams not only produced such acclaimed works as Lincoln and the Radicals Lincoln and His Generals and a biography of Huey Long that won both the Pulitzer Prize and the National Book Award but he also mentored generations of students who became distinguished historians in their own right. In this collection ten of those former students along with one author greatly inspired by Williams's example offer incisive essays that honor both Williams and his career long dedication to sound imaginative scholarship and broad historical inquiry. The opening and closing essays fittingly enough deal with Williams himself: a biographical sketch by Frank J. Wetta and a piece by Roger Spiller that place Williams in larger historical perspective among writers on Civil War generalship. The bulk of the book focuses on Robert E. Lee and a number of the commanders who served under him starting with Charles Roland's seminal article The Generalship of Robert E. Lee the only one in the collection that has been previously published. Among the essays that follow Roland's are contributions by Brian Holden Reid on the ebb and flow of Lee's reputation George C. Rable on Stonewall Jackson's deep religious commitment A. Wilson Greene on P. G. T. Beauregard's role in the Petersburg Campaign and William L. Richter on James Longstreet as postwar pariah. Together these gifted historians raise a host of penetrating and original questions about how we are to understand America's defining conflict in our own time just as T Harry Williams did in his And by encompassing such varied subjects as military history religion and historiography Lee and His Generals demonstrates once more what a fertile field Civil War scholarship remains Lawrence Lee Hewitt is professor of history emeritus at Southeastern Louisiana University Most recently he and Arthur W Bergeron now deceased coedited three volumes of essays under the collective title Confederate Generals in the Western Theater Thomas E Schott served for many years as a historian for the U S Air Force and U S Special Operations Command He is the author of Alexander H Stephens of Georgia A Biography which won both the Society of American Historians Award and the Jefferson Davis Award

Alexander Pope in the Making Joseph Hone, 2021-01-28 How did Alexander Pope become the greatest poet of the eighteenth century Modern scholarship has typically taken Pope s rise to greatness and subsequent remoteness from lesser authors for granted As a major poet he is treated as the successor of Milton and Dryden or the precursor of Wordsworth Drawing on previously neglected texts and overlooked archival materials Alexander Pope in the Making immerses the poet in his milieu providing a substantial new account of Pope s early career from the earliest traces of manuscript circulation to the publication of his collected Works and beyond In this book Joseph Hone illuminates classic poems such as An Essay on Criticism The Rape of the Lock and Windsor Forest by setting them alongside lesser known texts by Pope and his contemporaries many of which have never received sustained critical attention before Pope s earliest experiments in satire panegyric lyric pastoral and epic are all explored alongside his translations publication strategies and neglected editorial projects By recovering values shared by Pope and the politically heterodox men and women whose works he read and with whom he collaborated this book constructs powerful new interpretive frameworks for some of the eighteenth century s most celebrated poems Alexander Pope in the Making mounts a comprehensive challenge to the Scriblerian paradigm that has dominated scholarship for the past eighty years It sheds fresh light on Pope s early career and reshapes our understanding of the ideological landscape of his era This book will be essential reading for scholars and students of eighteenth century literature history and politics

Politics Without Vision Tracy B. Strong, 2012-04-20 Politics without Vision takes up the thought of seven influential thinkers each of whom attempted to construct a political solution to this problem Nietzsche Weber Freud Lenin Schmitt Heidegger and Arendt None of these theorists were liberals nor excepting possibly Arendt were they democrats and some might even be said to have served as handmaidens to totalitarianism And all to a greater or lesser extent shared the common conviction that the institutions and practices of liberalism are inadequate to the demands and stresses of the present times In examining their thought Strong acknowledges the political evil that some of their ideas served to foster but argues that these were not necessarily the only paths their explorations could have taken By uncovering the turning points in their thought and the paths not taken Strong strives to develop a political theory that can avoid and perhaps help explain the mistakes of the past while furthering the democratic impulse
