Evaluating Sample Students Extended Responses

Task Directions: Today you will be the scorer! After we read the extended response question and the passages titled "Excerpt from Double Dutch: A celebration of Jump Rope, Rhyme and Sisterhood" and "Excerpt from It's Our World, too!" you will discuss with your group what score you think each students' response should receive and explain why you gave it that score. You must use what you learned about using the "RACECE" strategy for each bullet point (question) and the Extended Response Rubric to help you score.

As you read each sample response you will...

- 1) Check all of the parts of the rubric that the student shows in their response.
- 2) Write what score you think they should get and why you think this student deserves this score.
- 3) Discuss and answer in the feedback section with your partners why you gave the student that score and what that student can do for next time to improve.

We do this so that we can compare different student writing samples for an extended. We can also learn what the difference is between a level 0, 1, 2, 3, or 4.

broad historical perspective Descombes draws surprising links between cognitivism and earlier anthropological projects such as Levi Strauss's work on the symbolic status of myths He identifies as incoherent both the belief that mental states are detached from the world and the idea that states of mind are brain states these assumptions beg the question of the relation between mind and brain In place of cognitivism Descombes offers an anthropologically based theory of mind that emphasizes the mind's collective nature Drawing on Wittgenstein he maintains that mental acts are properly attributed to the person not the brain and that states of mind far from being detached from the world require a historical and cultural context for their very intelligibility Available in English for the first time this is the most outstanding work of one of France's finest contemporary philosophers It provides a much needed link between the continental and Anglo American traditions and its impact will extend beyond philosophy to anthropology psychology critical theory and French studies New York State
