Diet for a Large Planet Chris Otter, 2020-10-12 A history of the unsustainable modern diet heavy in meat wheat and sugar that requires more land and resources than the planet is able to support We are facing a world food crisis of unparalleled proportions Our reliance on unsustainable dietary choices and agricultural systems is causing problems both for human health and the health of our planet Solutions from lab grown food to vegan diets to strictly local food consumption are often discussed but a central question remains how did we get to this point In Diet for a Large Planet Chris Otter goes back to the late eighteenth century in Britain where the diet heavy in meat wheat and sugar was developing As Britain underwent steady growth urbanization industrialization and economic expansion the nation altered its food choices shifting away from locally produced plant based nutrition This new diet rich in animal proteins and refined carbohydrates made people taller and stronger but it led to new types of health problems Its production also relied on far greater acreage than Britain itself forcing the nation to become more dependent on global resources Otter shows how this issue expands beyond Britain looking at the global effects of large agro food systems that require more resources than our planet can sustain This comprehensive history helps us understand how the British played a significant role in making red meat white bread and sugar the diet of choice linked to wealth luxury and power and shows how dietary choices connect to the pressing issues of climate change and food supply

Tasting Cultures: Thoughts for Food Maria José Pires, 2019-01-04 This volume was first published by Inter Disciplinary Press in 2015 A myriad of fresh possibilities is offered when researching in food studies Just like any other area of knowledge researchers here breathe the present because they have already absorbed the past and can easily try to devise the future As the question of authenticity and adaptability rises urgently we gain knowledge of the specificities where cultural heritage faces assimilation from other lifestyles in an effort to save and reshape the community and its cultural identity Food researchers have also struggled with the constructions and measuring of tastes within diverse communities by comparison to other references even though it has become harder to discern matters from expert advice and controlled mediation Therefore we invariably come across the power of representations in deep association with culture and the society that produces them for there are increasingly complex food systems bearing diverse layers of meaning

The New Food Activism Alison Alkon, Julie Guthman, 2017-06-27 New and exciting forms of food activism are emerging as supporters of sustainable agriculture increasingly recognize the need for a broader more strategic and more politicized food politics that engages with questions of social racial and economic justice This book highlights examples of campaigns to restrict industrial agriculture s use of pesticides and other harmful technologies struggles to improve the pay and conditions of workers throughout the food system and alternative projects that seek to de emphasize notions of individualism and private ownership Grounded in over a decade of scholarly critique of food activism this volume seeks to answer the question of what next inspiring scholars students and activists toward collective cooperative and oppositional struggles for change Provided by publisher

many of whom were black women with children living on their own perished that day behind the plant's locked and bolted doors Eighty years after the Triangle Shirtwaist Fire industrial disasters were supposed to have been a thing of the past After spending several years talking to local residents state officials and survivors of the fire award winning historian Bryant Simon has written a vivid potent and disturbing social autopsy of this town this factory and this time that shows how cheap labor cheap government and cheap food came together in a way that was bound for tragedy 00.00.000.00 00 000,2022-05-12
