Skill focus: Record information in a table

What is a table?

- A table is a way of organising information so that it is easy to use.
- The main parts of a table are columns, rows and blocks.
- A table can have any number of columns and rows, depending on the information that it shows.
- Each column has a heading.
- Sometimes there is an extra column that tells you what is in each row.
- Every table should have a heading.

The main parts of a table

← The table's heading tells what the table is about

	Column 1	Column 2	Column 3	Column 4
Row 1	Cell 1	Cell 2	Cell 3	Cell 4
Row 2	Cell 5	Cell 6	Cell 7	Cell 8
Row 3	Cell 9	Cell 10	Cell 11	Cell 12

The column heading tells you what type of information is in each column

The row headings tell you about the type of information in each row.

Each cell links the information in the column to the information in the row

How to draw a table:

- Look at the information carefully. Decide which information you should place in each column and what your column headings should be.
- Decide how many rows you will need. Decide whether you need an extra column with row headings.
- Draw your table so that it has the correct number of rows and columns. Use a ruler so that you draw straight lines. You must also make sure that your cells are big enough to record the information.
- Write in the column and row headings. Write the heading of the table.
- Fill the information for each row and column in the correct cell.
