Rasmussen, 2016-04-30 What might a self conscious turn to formal analysis look like in Renaissance literary studies today after theory and the new historicism The essays collected here address this question from a variety of critical perspectives as part of a renewed willingness within literary and cultural studies to engage questions of form Essays by Paul Alpers Douglas Bruster Stephen Cohen Heather Dubrow William Flesch Joseph Loewenstein Elizabeth Harris Sagaser and Mark Womack together with an introduction of Mark David Rasmussen and an afterword by Richard Strier Shakespeare and the Question of Culture D. Bruster, 2016-04-30 The last two decades have witnessed a profound change in the way we receive the literary texts of early modern England One could call this a move from text to culture Put briefly earlier critics tended to focus on literary texts strictly conceived plays poems prose fictions essays Since the mid 1980s however it has been just as likely for critics to speak of the culture of early modern England even when they do so in conjunction with analysis of literary texts This cultural turn has clearly enriched the way in which we read the texts of early modern England but the interdisciplinary practices involved have frequently led critics to make claims about materials and about the culture these materials appear to embody that exceed those materials representativeness Shakespeare and the Question of Culture addresses the central issue of culture in early modern studies through both literary history and disciplinary critique Douglas Bruster argues that the culture literary critiques investigate through the works of Shakespeare and other writers is largely a literary culture and he examines what this necessary limitation of the scope of cultural studies means for the discipline of early modern studies
