Music in the Words: Musical Form and Counterpoint in the Twentieth-Century Novel Alan Shockley, 2017-07-05 There is a strong tradition of literary analyses of the musical artwork Simply put all musicology any writing about music is an attempt at making analogies between what happens within the world of sound and language itself This study considers this analogy from the opposite perspective authors attempting to structure words using musical forms and techniques It s a viewpoint much more rarely explored and none of the extant studies of novelists musical techniques have been done by musicians Can a novel follow the form of a symphony and still succeed as a novel Can musical counterpoint be mimicked by words on a page Alan Shockley begins looking for answers by examining music s appeal for novelists and then explores two brief works a prose fugue by Douglas Hofstadter and a short story by Anthony Burgess modeled after a Mozart symphony Analyses of three large emblematic attempts at musical writing follow The much debated Sirens episode of James Joyce s Ulysses which the author famously likened to a fugue Burgess largely ignored Napoleon Symphony A Novel in Four Movements patterned on Beethoven s Eroica and Joyce s Finnegans Wake which Shockley examines as an attempt at composing a fully musicalized language After these three larger analyses Shockley discusses two quite recent brief novels William Gaddis novella Agape and David Markson s This is not a novel proposing that each of these confounding texts coheres elegantly when viewed as a musically structured work From the perspective of a composer Shockley offers the reader fresh tools for approaching these dense and often daunting texts
