Planning Matter Robert A. Beauregard, 2015-11-03 For a profession concerned overwhelmingly with the material world whether houses offices highways streets parks or sewer systems urban planning has a poor understanding of materiality perhaps because as Robert Beauregard says Plans erase what exists in order to propose what has been imagined Too often planners position their work as fact driven purely administrative and allegedly devoid of politics or they fail to grapple adequately with the social and physical complexities of the real world In this ambitious and provocative book Beauregard sets out to situate urban planning and its ways of knowing being and behaving within a new materialist framework that acknowledges the inevitable insufficiency of our representations of reality while also engaging more holistically with the world in all its diversity human and nonhuman actors alike

Whose Ideas Matter? Amitav Acharya, 2011-07-22 Asia is a crucial battleground for power and influence in the international system It is also a theater of new experiments in regional cooperation that could redefine global order Whose Ideas Matter is the first book to explore the diffusion of ideas and norms in the international system from the perspective of local actors with Asian regional institutions as its main focus There s no Asian equivalent of the EU or of NATO Why has Asia and in particular Southeast Asia avoided such multilateral institutions Most accounts focus on U S interests and perceptions or intraregional rivalries to explain the design and effectiveness of regional institutions in Asia such as SEATO ASEAN and the ASEAN Regional Forum Amitav Acharya instead foregrounds the ideas of Asian policymakers including their response to the global norms of sovereignty and nonintervention Asian regional institutions are shaped by contestations and compromises involving emerging global norms and the preexisting beliefs and practices of local actors Acharya terms this perspective constitutive localization and argues that international politics is not all about Western ideas and norms forcing their way into non Western societies while the latter remain passive recipients Rather ideas are conditioned and accepted by local agents who shape the diffusion of ideas and norms in the international system Acharya sketches a normative trajectory of Asian regionalism that constitutes an important contribution to the global sovereignty regime and explains a remarkable continuity in the design and functions of Asian regional institutions

Exploring Materiality and Connectivity in Anthropology and Beyond Philipp Schorch, Martin Saxer, Marlen Elders, 2020-03-30 Exploring Materiality and Connectivity in Anthropology and Beyond provides a new look at the old anthropological concern with materiality and connectivity It understands materiality not as defined property of some thing nor does it take connectivity as merely a relation between discrete entities Somewhat akin to Heisenberg's uncertainty principle it sees materiality and connectivity as two interrelated modes in which an entity is or more precisely is becoming in the world The question thus is how these two modes of becoming relate and fold into each other Throughout the four year research process that led to this book the authors approached this question not just from a theoretical perspective taking the suggestion of thinking through things literally and methodologically seriously the first two workshops were dedicated to practical hands on exercises working with things From these workshops a series of installations emerged straddling the boundaries of art and academia These installations served as artistic academic interventions during the final symposium and are featured alongside the other academic contributions to this volume Throughout this process two main themes emerged and structure Part II Movement and Growth and Part III Dissolution and Traces of the present volume respectively Part I Conceptual Grounds consists of two chapters offering conceptual takes on things and ties one from anthropology and one from archaeology As interrelated modes of becoming materiality and connectivity make it necessary to coalesce things and ties into thing ties an insight toward which the chapters and interventions came from different sides and one in which the initial proposition of the editors still shines through Throughout the pages of this volume we invite the reader to travel beyond imaginaries of a universe of separate planets united by connections and to venture with us instead into the thicket of thing ties in which we live
