Evil on the Prowl Emmanuel Chinyamakobvu,2012-08-22 In Evil on the Prowl a divorced former schoolteacher becomes a well respected church leader The causes of her divorce as Tito and Tongai were informed one afternoon is because according to Nhau her ex husband she is an unscrupulous character a woman of questionable ethics All she thinks of is making money by whatever means possible however dubious Meanwhile for weeks on end the city of Marondera is gripped by a crime wave as groups of criminals operate with impunity robbing abducting raping and printing and circulating counterfeit money Ordinary people disappear without trace Men taken from the streets are drugged with numbing regularity then transformed into sex machines and subjected to violent sex escapades without them knowing it is happening A team of police detectives follow a number of leads in the days and weeks to come but none of them yield what each has promised at the beginning The police is increasingly frustrated by its apparent failure to get rid of the criminals as crime in the city is on the increase Then Wanzai and her son are murdered in cold blood and a suspected thief is caught at the funeral wake of the deceased in the middle of the night Intelligence received from the suspect reveals that a religious shrine in a village in Domboshava is a centre for dubious activities other than being solely a place for warship At the centre of it all is one woman Her Anointed One The Harare Directory ,1984 Transient Workspaces Clapperton Chakanetsa Mavhunga,2014-09-19 An account of technology in Africa from an African perspective examining hunting in Zimbabwe as an example of an innovative mobile workspace In this book Clapperton Mavhunga views technology in Africa from an African perspective Technology in his account is not something always brought in from outside but is also something that ordinary people understand make and practice through their everyday innovations or creativities including things that few would even consider technological Technology does not always originate in the laboratory in a Western style building but also in the society in the forest in the crop field and in other places where knowledge is made and turned into practical outcomes African creativities are found in African mobilities Mavhunga shows the movement of people as not merely conveyances across space but transient workspaces Taking indigenous hunting in Zimbabwe as one example he explores African philosophies of mobilities as spiritually guided and of the forest as a sacred space Viewing the hunt as guided mobility Mavhunga considers interesting questions of what constitutes technology under regimes of spirituality He describes how African hunters extended their knowledge traditions to domesticate the gun how European colonizers with no remedy of their own turned to indigenous hunters for help in combating the deadly tsetse fly and examines how wildlife conservation regimes have criminalized African hunting rather than enlisting hunters and their knowledge as allies in wildlife sustainability The hunt Mavhunga writes is one of many criminalized knowledges and practices to which African people turn in times of economic or political crisis He argues that these practices need to be decriminalized and examined as technologies of everyday innovation with a view toward constructive engagement innovating with Africans rather than for them Parade ,2002 Can you hear the drums? Catherine Buckle,2013 Can You Hear the Drums is a unique collection of eye witness letters from Zimbabwe documenting the country s journey into lawlessness turmoil and economic mayhem Told through the eyes of an ordinary Mum living in a country town this book is about what really happened in Zimbabwe at the start of the 21st Century It s not about propaganda rhetoric or revolutions but about real people how they survived endured adapted and never gave up hope Sometimes sad or frightening often absurd and touching the letters are interspersed with news clips humour and absurdities that all became coping mechanisms for everyday survival in a country in meltdown Can you Hear the Drums covers a five year period from 2000 to 2004 Diarrhoeal Diseases Research ,1997-09

AIDS Home Care Viola Zimunya,1992 Rhodesia Telephone Directory Southern Rhodesia. Posts and Telecommunications Corporation,1976 Budget Estimates for the Year Ending ... Zimbabwe,2006 Zimbabwe ,1992 The main objectives of the report are to identify options for improving efficiency and equity in the provision of health services in Zimbabwe and to find more effective ways to mobilize additional resources for the country s rapidly evolving health system Through the use of national provincial district and health facility specific data the authors are able to examine a series of key issues related to a allocative and technical efficiency in the health sector b the equitable distribution of financial resources and health services and c the immediate and long run availability of funding to meet Zimbabwe s changing health needs The context for the report is one of rising personal incomes and demand for health care increasingly severe budgetary constraints and an epidemiological pattern that includes both traditional childhood and communicable diseases and new challenges in the form of adult chronic diseases and AIDS The report concludes that with the cash strapped public sector now providing more than half the health services and health financing in Zimbabwe nongovernmental actors will need to play an increasingly important role in the future Guerrilla Girl Helen D. Gamanya,2009-09 A Girl s Echoing Voice in the Zimbabwe Chimurenga Guerrilla Girl is a historical novel set amidst the backdrop of the struggle for liberation of Zimbabwe Whilst the names of the characters are fictitious the majority of events and places are true The main protagonist in this novel is also the narrator a woman fully involved as a trained fighter in most of the events The story depicts an account of how the women were fully involved in the liberation struggle The other element to the story is how the women of Zimbabwe had to fight the battle on two fronts against two kinds of enemy the struggle against the common enemy the colonialist and the struggle against male chauvinism Most of the African men in Zimbabwe found it hard to accept their women as fighters let alone armed guerrillas So women had a hard time trying to assert themselves as capable and trusted liberators Women were always in extreme danger of being put down by their male counterparts About the author Helen is a retired college principal lecturer She grew up in Colonial Zimbabwe Southern Rhodesia Initially she trained as a nurse but later worked as a tailor in a garment factory Helen then joined the African Trade Union Congress and became involved in trade unionism which eventually led to involvement with national political groups Through her political activities she met her future husband Because of their political views they ended up in exile During this period they lived in Tanganyika now Tanzania USA UK and Kenya Helen and her husband remained involved in party politics during their time in exile They returned to Zimbabwe at independence in 1980 As a black woman Helen has known extreme poverty and discrimination She has a passion for the emancipation and advancement of women Country Reports on Human Rights Practices ,2001
