Resources in Education, 1992-08 Driving Europe Frank Schipper, 2008 Today we can hardly imagine life in Europe without roads and the automobiles that move people and goods around In fact the vast majority of movement in Europe takes place on the road Travelers use the car to explore parts of the continent on their holidays and goods travel large distances to reach consumers Indeed the twentieth century has deservedly been characterized as the century of the car The situation looked very different around 1900 People crossing national borders by car encountered multiple hurdles on their way Technically they imported their vehicle into a neighboring country and had to pay astronomic import duties Often they needed to pass a driving test in each country they visited Early on automobile and touring clubs sought to make life easier for traveling motorists International negotiations tackled the problems arising from differing regulations The resulting volume describes everything from the standardized traffic signs that saved human lives on the road to the Europa bus taking tourists from Stockholm to Rome in the 1950s Driving Europe offers a highly original portrait of a Europe built on roads in the course of the twentieth century

Jean Thomas, 2023-01-13 This book

explores the current impasse that global regulators face in the digital sphere Computer technology has advanced human civilization tenfold but the freedom to interact with others in cyberspace has made individuals discrete communities organizations and governments more vulnerable to abuse In consequence political decision makers are seriously considering granting limited legal immunity to victims who decide to hack back Many victims frustrated by the slow pace of law enforcement in cyberspace have chosen to take the law into their own hands retaliating against those who have stolen valuable data and damaged network operations Political deliberations about limited immunity for hackbacks usually ignore global justice and moral justifications for active defense policies Typically cyber security policies balance deterrence against two different understandings of morality and the good life fairness or welfare This book proposes a third moral rationale for cyber security policies capability theory developed principally by Amartya Sen and Martha Nussbaum Properly formulated a capability based defense of retaliatory hackbacks can minimize attribution and cyber escalation risks deter bad behavior by casual computer users disingenuous security experts big tech companies criminals and rogue governments and satisfy calls for more retributive and distributive justice in the open world This book will appeal to legal theorists political philosophers social activists investors international relations scholars and businesspeople in the tech community Library Association

Raffaele Cerulli,Andrea Raiconi,Stefan Voß,2018-09-19 This book constitutes the refereed proceedings of the 9th International Conference on Computational Logistics ICCL 2018 held in Vietri sul Mare Italy in October 2018 The 32 full papers presented were carefully reviewed and selected from 71 submissions They are organized in topical sections as follows maritime shipping and routing container handling and container terminals vehicle routing and multi modal transportation network design and scheduling logistics oriented combinatorial optimization AB Bookman's Weekly ,1993 Journal of the Society of Arts ,1873 Science Teaching in Schools Great Britain: Parliament: House of Lords: Science and Technology Committee,2006-11-05 The Committee s report examines science and mathematics teaching in secondary schools in England focusing on the following issues the take up of science and mathematics at GCSE and A level the provision of careers advice to students problems in the recruitment and retention of teachers the quality of teaching methods and the role of continuing professional development The Committee finds that effective science teaching in schools is essential both in order to ensure a satisfactory general level of scientific literacy in society and to enable the next generation of scientists and engineers to progress into higher education and beyond It argues that the current examination system forces students to study an excessively narrow range of subjects at too early an age and it recommends that the Government should reconsider the Tomlinson proposals for a broader diploma based system for 14 19 year old students based on the International Baccalaureate This would ensure that students receive a more rounded education and are not made to over specialise before they are able to see the merits of studying science and mathematics Concerns are also raised about the shortage of science teachers particularly specialist physics and chemistry teachers the quality of careers advice in schools and the importance of practical science in schools      Journal ,1873      Intelligent Data Engineering and Automated Learning - IDEAL

Mr Leon Cruickshank,2014-10-28 Open innovation crowd sourcing democratised innovation vernacular design and brand fanaticism are amongst a handful of new approaches to design and innovation that have generated discussion and media coverage in recent years In practice these ideas are often inspiring propositions rather than providing pragmatic strategies Open Design and Innovation develops the argument for a more nuanced acknowledgement and facilitation of non professional forms of creativity drawing on lessons from commercial design practice theoretical analysis and a wider understanding of innovation Specifically this book examines innovation and design the reality and myth of mass creativity and the future of the design profession through a series of case studies of new approaches to open design practices The text draws on academic research practical experience of the author in delivering open design projects and first hand interviews with leaders in the fields The author challenges the notion of the designer as fountain head of innovation and equally the idea of user creativity as a replacement for traditional design and innovation The book offers a critique of the hype surrounding some of the emerging phenomena and a framework to help understand the emerging relationship between citizens and designers It goes on to propose a roadmap for the development of the design profession welcoming and facilitating new modes of design activity where designers facilitate creative collaborations      Technology and Domestic and Family Violence Bridget Harris, Delanie Woodlock, 2023-01-30 This book brings together academics and advocates to explore an emerging issue the use of technology by perpetrators of domestic and family violence Of interest too is critique of government and non government activities in this arena and how technology can be harnessed to respond to harm Domestic and family violence DFV is widely recognised as an important social issue impacting the safety and wellbeing of victim survivors and their children and on a broader scale threatening risk and security on global levels This book provides insights drawn from research and practice in the Global South and Global North to provide an evidence base and real world solutions and initiatives to understand address and ultimately prevent technology facilitated domestic and family violence and how technology can be used to effect positive change and empower victim survivors and communities Technology and Domestic and Family Violence will be of great interest to students and scholars on victimology criminology social work law women s studies sociology and media studies It will also be a valuable reference for practitioners government and non government advocates working on issues around domestic violence
