The Student's Manual of Microscopic Technique with Instructions for Photo-micrography J. Carroll Tobias, 1936
Guide to Educational Resources for Laboratorians ,1984     A Primer in Neurological Staining Procedures George Clark, Margaret P. Clark, 1971     Psychonomic Monograph Supplements ,1969     Laboratory Instrument Maintenance Manual ,1977     Neuroanatomical Research Techniques Richard T. Robertson, 2013-10-22

Neuroanatomical Research Techniques discusses developments in major neuroanatomical research techniques. The book is organized into four parts. Part I deals generally with the preparation and study of brain tissue. It includes a chapter on the microscope discussing optical magnification limitations of microscopy and optical contrasting methods. Other chapters summarize basic techniques for tissue preparation and sectioning, present guidelines for a number of standard but essential staining procedures, and present sophisticated and contemporary computer techniques that are proving to be invaluable as neuroanatomy evolves from a qualitative to a quantitative discipline. Part II deals with techniques often used for the study of normal tissue. These include the Golgi method, fluorescence histochemistry techniques for staining single neurons, and the use of the electron microscope. Part III presents techniques for studying intrinsic connections of the nervous system. These include techniques for silver impregnation of degenerating fibers, autoradiographic technique for studying axonal projections, and somatopetal movement of horseradish peroxidase as a tool for studying connections and neuron morphology. Part IV discusses the interpretation of results from neuroanatomical research techniques and presents examples of the applications of neuroanatomical methods to major problems in physiological psychology.

The Application of Hydraulic and Sediment Transport Models in Fluvial Geomorphology Artur Radecki-Pawlik ,Tomáš Galia,2020-12-10 After publishing the famous Fluvial Processes in Geomorphology in the early 1960s the work of Luna Leopold Gordon Wolman and John Miller became a key for opening the door to understanding rivers and streams They first illustrated the problem to geomorphologists and geographers Later Chang in his Fluvial Processes in River Engineering provided a basis for engineers showing this group of professionals how to deal with rivers and how to understand them Since then more informative studies have been published Many of the authors started to combine fluvial geomorphology knowledge and river engineering needs such as Tools in Fluvial Geomorphology by G Mathias Kondolf and Herv Pi gay or focused more on river engineering tasks such as Stream Restoration in Dynamic Fluvial Systems Scientific Approaches by Andrew Simon Sean Bennett and Janine Castro Finally Luna Leopold summarized river and stream morphologies in the beautiful A view of the river It appears that we continue to explore this subject in the right direction We better understand rivers and streams and as engineers and fluvial geomorphologists we can establish tools to help bring rivers alive However there is still a hunger for more scientific tools that we could use to further understand rivers and to support the development of healthy streams and rivers with high biodiversity in the present world which has started to face water scarcity

The Lancet ,1893      Protein Arrays Eric Fung,2008-02-03 Protein Arrays Methods and Protocols is an introduction to protein array technology and its application to the multiplexed detection of proteins Although protein array technology has some roots in gene array technology it can only be described as a distant relative Unlike DNA with its established rules of base pairing and therefore predictable biochemical behavior proteins are rich with diversity Proteins can be large or small compact or extended basic or acidic hydrophobic or hydrophilic and so on Just as importantly their behavior is determined by the environment in which they reside and so the composition of the buffer in which experiments are performed has a dramatic impact on the outcome of the experiment Thus if the goal is to simultaneously measure the expression of a large number of proteins these variables must be addressed Not to be deterred scientists have created a variety of solutions to successfully detect and characterize multiple proteins simultaneously It is the intent of this volume to introduce to the reader a set of technological solutions to the diversity problem as well as to provide the reader with some examples of practical applications of these technologies
