Infertility in a Crowded Country Holly Donahue Singh, 2022-12-06. In Lucknow, the capital of India's most populous state, the stigmas and colonial legacies surrounding sexual propriety and population growth affect how Muslim women often in poverty cope with infertility. In Infertility in a Crowded Country, Holly Donahue Singh draws on interviews, observation and autoethnographic perspectives in local communities and Lucknow's infertility clinics to examine access to technology and treatments and to explore how pop culture shapes the reproductive paths of women and their supporters through clinical spaces, health camps, religious sites, and adoption agencies. Donahue Singh finds that women are willing to transgress social and religious boundaries to seek healing. By focusing on interpersonal connections, Infertility in a Crowded Country provides a fascinating starting point for discussions of family, kinship, and gender, the global politics of reproduction, and reproductive technologies and ideologies and social practices around creating families.

Advancing Online Course Design and Pedagogy for the 21st Century Learning Environment
 Chatham, Daniel, 2021-01-08 The current learning environment is substantially different than what existed for most of the 20th century. Learners and teachers today must navigate in perpetually changing contexts where education is influenced by technological advancement and obsolescence, economic barriers, a changing employment landscape, and even international politics. Studies indicate that employers seek to hire graduates with strong skills in areas coalescing around international awareness, creativity, communication, leadership, and teamwork. Skills and experiences in these areas are necessary preparation for the current economy and to pursue jobs that do not exist yet while providing some insulation against the obsolescence of industries that lack these characteristics. These interpersonal skills are not often the subject of students' degrees, yet there are opportunities in online education to cultivate them. With increased interest in new career options comes the need to reconsider how to teach subjects in the increasingly online environment. Advancing Online Course Design and Pedagogy for the 21st Century Learning Environment is a critical reference book that navigates today's dynamic education requirements and provides examples of how online learning can foster growth in skill areas necessary for career advancement through effective course design. Moreover, it helps educators gain insight into online pedagogy and course design for the 21st-century learner and prepares them to convert traditional courses and enhance existing online courses, thereby supporting students' growth and development in the highly dynamic online learning environment. Focusing on specific learning activities, assessments, engagement, communication techniques, and more, this book provides a valuable resource for those seeking to upgrade teaching and learning into the online environment, those that seek better employment outcomes for their students, and those seeking to explore contemporary online course design strategies or examples. This includes teachers, instructional designers, curriculum developers, academicians, researchers, and students.

Streaming and Copyright Law
 Lasantha Ariyaratna, 2022-09-05 This book examines the challenges posed to Australian copyright law by streaming from the end-user perspective. It compares the Australian position with the European Union and United States to draw lessons from them regarding how they have dealt with streaming and copyright. By critically examining the technological functionality of streaming and the failure of copyright enforcement against the masses, it argues for strengthening end-user rights. The rising popularity of streaming has resulted in a revolutionary change to how digital content such as sound recordings, cinematographic films, and radio and television broadcasts is used on the internet, superseding the conventional method of downloading using streaming to access digital content has challenged copyright law because it is not clear whether end user acts of streaming constitute copyright infringement. These prevailing grey areas between copyright and streaming often make end users feel doubtful about accessing digital content through streaming. It is uncertain whether exercising the right of reproduction is appropriately suited for streaming given the ambiguities of embodiment and scope of substantial part. Conversely the fair dealing defence in Australia cannot be used aptly to defend end users acts of streaming digital content because end users who use streaming to access digital content can rarely rely on the defence of fair dealing for the purposes of criticism or review, news reporting, parody or satire or research or study. When considering a temporary copy exception end users are at risk of being held liable for infringement when using streaming to access a website that contains infringing digital content even if they lack any knowledge about the content's infringing nature. Moreover the grey areas in circumventing geo blocking have made end users hesitant to access websites through streaming because it is not clear whether technological protection measures apply to geo blocking. End users have a severe lack of knowledge about whether they can use circumvention methods such as virtual private networks to access streaming websites without being held liable for copyright infringement. Despite the intricacies between copyright and access to digital content the recently implemented website blocking laws have emboldened copyright owners while suppressing end users access to digital content. This is because the principles of proportionality and public interest have been given less attention when determining website blocking injunctions.
