

My Oh My, It's Meiosis!

1. Genetics is the study of HEREDITY.
2. Heredity is defined as the passing of TRAITS from PARENTS to their OFFSPRING.
3. Traits are a QUALITY or CHARACTERISTIC determined by our DNA.
4. Skin, nerve, and muscle cells are classified as SOMATIC cells and possess 23 pairs, or 46 chromosomes per cell. These pairs (2 #1's, 2#1's, are called HOMOLOGOUS CHROMOSOMES. Cells with a full set of chromosomes are called DIPLOID (2N) and are made by MITOSIS!
5. Fertilization is the union of a SPERM and an EGG to form a ZYGOTE, or a fertilized egg. Reproductive cells are called GAMETES.
6. Gametes must have HALF the number of chromosomes, or one chromosome from each pair, so gametes possess 23 chromosomes. Cells with half the number of chromosomes are called HAPLOID (N).
7. In order for cells to become haploid, cells undergo a division process called MEIOSIS. Use the space below to summarize this process.

Meiosis produces sex cells: 4 sperm in males & 1 egg in females.

Sperm & Egg are haploid (half the number of chromosomes) so when they combine, the offspring has the correct number of chromosomes.

8. One reason why you like SORT OF like your siblings (BUT NOT EXACTLY) is the Law of Independent Assortment. Explain this lab below.

WHEN THE HOMOLOGOUS PAIRS LINE UP IN METAPHASE 1, IT IS COMPLETELY RANDOM. THE MATERNAL AND PATERNAL CHROMOSOMES MIGHT BE ON ONE SIDE OR THE OTHER. THE CHANCES OF SIBLINGS RECEIVING THE EXACT SAME COMBINATION OF CHROMOSOMES IS LITERALLY IMPOSSIBLE.

9. Another reason is due to crossing over. Explain how this process furthers genetic diversity. (see picture to the right)

Crossing over occurs when the pairs of chromosomes line up. They exchange sections of DNA, creating new genetic combinations. As an example, a child might have traits that the mother and the father do not have.

10. Crossing over could be considered a mutation. Are mutations always bad? Explain.

Mutations can be bad, however, they can also be neutral or beneficial. A mutation might create a new trait that helps an animal survive in its environment.

Genetics: The Basics

11. GREGOR MENDEL is the "Father" of modern genetics, who used PEA PLANTS to understand important concepts of genetics and heredity.

12. Define:

a. Allele: opposite forms of a trait

b. Gene: segment of DNA (section of a chromosome); codes for traits such as dimples
