Climate Variability and Change in the Rift Valley and Blue Nile Basin, Ethiopia Abate Mekuriaw Bizuneh, 2013 This study deals with three interrelated problems First it pursues the quest for local knowledge to understand climate variability and change at local levels Due to controversies uncertainties skepticism and embedded economic and political interests in the climate change discourse effective world collective action is more likely to delay for quite some time to come Moreover as climate change discourse remains very weak at engaging local knowledge policies that emanate from the discourse might be less responsive to local climate problems both in terms of policy ingredients and time frame So having highlighting the paramount importance of local knowledge this study documents and critically analyzes this knowledge system among subsistence farmers in Ethiopia Secondly it analyzes the economic impacts of climate variability and change and adaptation through quantitative methods with a special focus on crop production Finally it analyzes the factors that influence adaptive behavior In so doing it challenges the traditional approach of adaptation research and brings in a conceptual framework borrowed from psychosocial theory and empirically tests the approach in explaining adaptive behavior of farmers
