3.3 Rejecting a Requisition

When a requisition request is sent for approval there may be instances when the approver will reject all or part of the request. If you receive a notification to approve a requisition request, always check the requisition details before approving so that you are then able to make a decision as to whether you wish to reject all or part of the request.

Rejecting part of a requisition will still give the request a status of "Approved". However, the rejected line item(s) will be deleted from the request. It is important therefore, that the requester checks the approved requisition to confirm what has been approved.
