Item Orderability is one of the new features that come with Order Management Release 12.1. Oracle provides an easy way to define orderable products, based on exceptions defined in the item orderability rules. It would be possible to apply orderable products business rules to items or item categories defined for an organization.

Based on the rules defined in the Orderability window, the user would be able to restrict the Items that can be ordered from the sales order and quick sales orders windows.
