Roy, 2011-09-13 What does God think of us when we fail Steve Roy has had to face his own failures But his failures also drove him deep into what God thinks about us and success He found that a biblically grounded view of success and failure challenges our preconceived notions but leads to hopeful renewal that goes beyond what we often ask or think Congressional Record United States. Congress, 1945 Outline of the Operations of the British Troops in Scinde and Afghanistan George Buist, 1843 Outline of the Operations of the British Troops in Scinde and Afghanistan is a detailed account of British military operations in the First Anglo Afghan War 1839-42 and of the invasion in 1839 by the British East India Company of the province of Sind in present day Pakistan The author George Buist 1804-60 was editor of the Bombay Times and the book is heavily drawn from dispatches that appeared in that newspaper and in another Indian publication the Monthly Times Buist was born in Scotland and educated at Saint Andrews University and the University of Edinburgh In addition to his newspaper work he was an accomplished amateur scientist who collected scientific data in various fields and served as secretary to the Geographical Society of Bombay and the Agri Horticultural Society of Western India Buist was highly critical of British policy both in this book and in the editorial line taken by the Bombay Times He writes that the Anglo Afghan War began as a war of aggression turned into struggle for our own defence and was transformed finally into a war of vengeance He opposed the policy of retaliation against the Afghans after the Kabul massacres of 1842 and argued that the war was both ruinously expensive and inimical to British interests The British objective in starting the war was to drive the ruler of Afghanistan Dost Mohammad Khan from power and to replace him with Shah Shuja who was thought to be more favorable to British interests and less susceptible to Russian pressure or blandishment About this view Buist writes The more the matter is examined the more difficult it is to discover by what process of self delusion it was that the projectors or advocates of the Doorannee Durrani alliance could for a moment persuade themselves that the restoration and maintenance of the Shah Shoojah Shuja on the throne could conduce to any one of the ends we professed ourselves anxious to attain
