Calgary's Stampede Queens Jennifer Hamblin, 2014 Alongside images of racing chuckwagons cowboys on bucking broncos and Aboriginal people in full regalia one of the most recognizable and enduring symbols of the Calgary Stampede is a trio of pretty cowgirls wearing white hat crowns Not surprisingly modern day Stampede Queens and Princesses make more than 450 public appearances per year promoting the show and the city of Calgary both at home and abroad But the fair was nearly six decades old before it appointed a royal representative to promote its interests In 1946 Patsy Rodgers became the Stampede's first rodeo queen The following year a local service club raised funds by sponsoring a contest for Queen of the Stampede Although it bore little resemblance to its modern counterpart this early competition based on ticket sales was widely popular and over the next few decades raised the equivalent of one million dollars for local charities and service projects From the beginning the Stampede recognized the promotional potential of the royal figureheads and worked to ensure that winners were credible representatives of what quickly became a year round public relations job In 1966 the Stampede officially took over and modernized the contest but it would take many decades of trial and error evolution to perfect the process of selecting and training its royalty Against a backdrop of changing times and drawing on contemporary sources and personal interviews the author traces the origin and development of the Calgary Stampede Queen contest and profiles its lucky young winners over seven exciting decades Complete with a large selection of archival photos Calgary's Stampede Queens tells the story from this fascinating corner of The Greatest Outdoor Show on Earth

Practical Aspects of Declarative Languages Gopal Gupta, 2003-05-20 Declarative languages have traditionally been regarded by the mainstream computing community as too impractical to be put to practical use At the same time traditional conferences devoted to declarative languages do not have issues related to practice as their central focus. Thus there are few forums devoted to discussion of practical aspects and implications of newly discovered results and techniques related to declarative languages. The goal of the First International Workshop on Practical Aspects of Declarative Languages (PADL) is to bring together researchers, practitioners, and implementors of declarative languages to discuss practical issues and practical implications of their research results. The workshop was held in San Antonio, Texas, during January 18-19, 1999. This volume contains its proceedings. Fifty-three papers were submitted in response to the call for papers. These papers were written by authors belonging to twenty-one countries from six continents. Each paper was assigned to at least two referees for reviewing. Twenty-four papers were finally selected for presentation at the workshop. Many good papers could not be included due to the limited duration of the workshop. The workshop included invited talks by Mark Hayden of DEC Compaq Systems Research Center speaking on Experiences Building Distributed Systems in ML and Mark Wallace of Imperial College Center for Planning and Resource Control (IC-PAARC) speaking on ECLiPSe Declarative Specification and Scalable Implementation.
