Community Development and Schools Mildred E. Warner, Jason Reece, Xue Zhang, 2024-07-29 This book lays out the promise and potential of schools as community building institutions It explores the challenges faced in incorporating schools into broader community development policy and also recognizes the changing demographics of schools and their need to integrate with economic development policy in order to promote broader community development The book includes chapters on tax abatements and economic development policy impacts on schools new approaches to school building renovation the potential and reach of shared services between communities and schools and the impact of school based health centers It also offers a theory to integrate schools into community development Key elements include shared power between communities and schools greater transparency in economic development policy collaboration across the broad range of community actors and engagement of diverse voices These elements build a greater sense of belonging across generations and class and racial divides Creative democracy can broaden both school and community development agendas and build a culture of health This book will help community development and school leaders recognize and pursue the promise of schools as critical community development actors The Open Access version of this book available at <http://www.taylorfrancis.com> has been made available under a Creative Commons Attribution Non Commercial CC BY NC 4.0 license Sustainable Communities, Sustainable Development Paul James, Yaso Nadarajah, Karen Haive, Victoria C.

Stead, 2012-07-31 Papua New Guinea is going through a crisis A concentration on conventional approaches to development including an unsustainable reliance on mining forestry and foreign aid has contributed to the country's slow decline since independence in 1975 Sustainable Communities Sustainable Development attempts to address problems and gaps in the literature on development and develop a new qualitative conception of community sustainability informed by substantial and innovative research in Papua New Guinea In this context sustainability is conceived in terms that include not just practices tied to economic development It also informs questions of wellbeing and social integration community building social support and infrastructure renewal In short the concern with sustainability here entails undertaking an analysis of how communities are sustained through time how they cohere and change rather than being constrained within discourses and models of development From another angle this project presents an account of community sustainability detached from instrumental concerns with economic development Contributors address questions such as What are the stories and histories through which people respond to their nation's development What is the everyday social environment of groups living in highly diverse areas migrant settlements urban villages remote communities They seek to contribute to a creative and dynamic grass roots response to the demands of everyday life and local global pressures While the overdeveloped world faces an intersecting crisis created by global climate change and financial instability Papua New Guinea with all its difficulties still has the basis for responding to this manifold predicament Its secret lies in what has been seen as its weakness underdeveloped economies and communities where people still maintain sustainable relations to each other and the natural world
