The End of Comparative Philosophy and the Task of Comparative Thinking Steven Burik, 2010-07-02 How do differences in language influence comparative philosophy Although the Orientalism famously described by Edward Said is rare today Steven Burik maintains that comparative philosophy often subtly privileges one tradition over another since certain conceptual schemes are so embedded in Western languages that it is difficult not to revert to them Arguing for a new approach that acknowledges how theory and practice cannot be separated in comparative philosophical endeavors Burik provides nonmetaphysical deconstructionist readings of Heidegger and Derrida and uses these to give a new reading of classical Daoism The ideas of language advanced therein can aid the project of comparative philosophy specifically and philosophies generally in trying to overcome ways of thinking that have dominated Western philosophy for twenty five hundred years and still frustrate intercultural encounters

Concrete Human Psychology Wolff-Michael Roth, 2015-11-19 Psychology quantitative or qualitative tends to conceive of the human person using metaphysical concepts and to separate the practical affective and intellectual aspects of participation in everyday life Lev S Vygotsky however was working towards a concrete human psychology a goal that he expresses in a small unfinished text of the same name This book articulates the foundation of and develops such a concrete human psychology according to which all higher psychological functions are relations between persons before being functions and according to which personality is the ensemble of societal relations with others that a person has lived and experienced Correlated with concern for the concreteness of human life and the psychology that theorizes it is the idea that to live means to change However none of the categories we currently have in psychology are categories of change as such In this work of concrete human psychology categories are developed on the basis of Vygotsky s work that are suitable to theorize an ever changing life including the language humans use to take control over their conditions and to talk about the conditions in which they live

"I don't translate, I create!" Vanessa Drexler, 2016-01-05 I don t translate I create This is the slogan of a translation agency called Sternkopf Communications located in Fl ha Germany The translators at this translation agency are specialized in the field of marketing and perceive creativeness their daily bread But what does this actually mean I don t translate I create Undoubtedly the translation of a text from one language into another is not an easy and straightforward process On the contrary the translator needs to invest much time and one or the other headache before a target text TT finally sounds natural fluent coherent and logical for the target audience Different possible translation solutions will have to be considered language as well as culture related equivalents often are not easily at hand etc Would it not be pleasant if machine translation MT was there to help with this process Yet despite the enormous importance of creativity in translating computer aided translation CAT tools are being used frequently by professional translators not to replace but to support the translator in their daily business CAT tools enable their users to translate in a more consistent way since they search source texts for words phrases or sentences that have already been translated before and stored in the TM so that the translator does not need to translate this text unit again from scratch Considering that this process brings about what could be called semi mechanical TTs the use of CAT tools seems to stand in stark contrast to the importance of creativity mentioned above Thus the question arises whether CAT tools influence the creative energy of translators and if this is the case whether translators regard this influence as rather positive or negative In this context it is also important to consider which fields of expertise generally demand a high degree of uniformity consistency in translations and which subject fields generally allow for a high degree of creative freedom Accordingly this paper pursues two related purposes The first is to compare five CAT tools in their degree of usability The second purpose is to identify translators perspectives on uniformity and creativity in translations with the goal to shedding light on the question whether CAT tools generally tend to positively or negatively influence the translation process on a rather linguistic than technological basis

Thinking the Poetic Measure of Justice Charles Bambach, 2013-05-19 A new reading of justice engaging the work of two philosophical poets who stand in conversation with the work of Martin Heidegger What is the measure of ethics What is the measure of justice And how do we come to measure the immeasurability of these questions Thinking the Poetic Measure of Justice situates the problem of justice in the interdisciplinary space between philosophy and poetry in an effort to explore the sources of ethical life in a new way Charles Bambach engages the works of two philosophical poets who stand as the bookends of modernity Friedrich Hölderlin 1770 1843 and Paul Celan 1920 1970 offering close textual readings of poems from each that define and express some of the crucial problems of German philosophical thought in the twentieth century tensions between the native and the foreign the proper and the strange the self and the other At the center of this philosophical conversation between Hölderlin and Celan Bambach places the work of Martin Heidegger to rethink the question of justice in a nonlegal nonmoral register by understanding it in terms of poetic measure Focusing on Hölderlin's and Heidegger's readings of pre Socratic philosophy and Greek tragedy as well as on Celan's reading of Kabbalah he frames the problem of poetic justice against the trauma of German destruction in the twentieth century
