Un-Equally Yoked Tamela Cozart Tucker, 2010-10-27 When devout Christian Joave Valentine meets the man of her dreams she's ready to lose her thirty-two year virgin status at the drop of a wedding ring but she's devastated to find that her boyfriend isn't as heaven-sent as he appears to be. Joave Valentine is a successful, smart, and beautiful woman. She's also saved and sanctified and being a virgin at the age of thirty-two she feels is her biggest accomplishment. She thinks she has found the perfect mate in her boyfriend Dietrich Armstrong. Unbeknownst to Joave, Dietrich is more like a lady's man than a man of God. His primary objective is to gain her trust by any means necessary to sway her into giving him her precious virginity. He's more than willing to fake his Christianity to reach this goal. Constance Hunter considers himself a real man in spite of his feminine name. He favors spirituality over religion and doesn't buy into what he calls church-folk values. When he crosses paths with Joave, he is convinced his assumptions about religion are correct until she starts to reveal her true self. Joave and Connie dive into a whirlwind friendship with an undeniable attraction. On their journey, they discover that the real meaning of love is so much more than they could have ever imagined. Diary From a German Officer's "House of Memories" Warren J. Luedtke, 2010-04-30

The House of Memories is a fictional story of what might have been. A WWII German officer disillusioned with the war and the useless deaths of multitudes of men and citizens, both his and Germany's, emigrates to the United States and meets his male cousin for the first time. His cousin sells him his homestead in Door County, Wisconsin, where a wonderful life is lived out. Donne's Anniversaries and the Poetry of Praise Barbara Kiefer Lewalski, 2015-03-08 In his occasional poetry and especially in his two elegaic Anniversary poems, Donne created a special symbolic mode in seventeenth-century poetry of praise and compliment. Barbara Kiefer Lewalski's reading of the Anniversary poems recognizes them as complex mixed-genre works which weld together formal, thematic, and structural elements from the occasional poem of praise, the funeral elegy, the funeral sermon, the hymn, the anatomy, and the Protestant meditation. Focusing especially on theme and structure, her reading demonstrates the coherent symbolic method and meaning of these poems and also their careful logical articulation both as individual poems and as companion pieces. Essentially, the author discovers their thorough and precise exploration through the poetic means of figure and symbol of the nature of man and the conditions of human life. In order to discuss the significant contexts for and influences on the Anniversary poems, the author has studied sixteenth and seventeenth-century epideictic theory and practice, Protestant meditation, Biblical hermeneutics, and funeral sermons. She is also concerned with the effect of the poems and of Donne's other writings of a similar kind on contemporary and subsequent developments in the poetry of praise, especially that of Marvell and Dryden. This is a lucid and learned book that provides a major context for the Anniversary poems and gives new significance to the designation of Donne as a metaphysical poet.
