

Cyber Bullying Issue

Social Networking has taken bullying to the outrageous. Prior to advanced technology, kids and teenagers were troubled by school bullies. Today, they are focused by bullies by means of internet. The vast majority experience some form of bullying throughout their life. Growing up, I encountered being bullied like typical name calling. I additionally dealt with minor instances of virtual bullies. These bullies are also known as cyber bullies.

Cyber bullying is an abuse of information technology to harass or harm other individuals. It could be through posting negative word or bits of gossip about someone else on the internet or social networking sites with an intention to humiliate him/her in public. With the expanding utilization of internet services and mobile technologies, cyber bullying has turned out to be frequent, particularly among teenagers. It incorporates correspondences that seek to control, criticize, control, harass or erroneously discredit a person.

The actions are frequent, deliberate and hostile intended to tarnish reputation of another person. These actions are performed in social media, public discussions or other online sites. A cyber bully might be an online stranger or it may be a person whom the victim really knows.

Today, most of individuals, especially people between ages of 12 to 18 invest more time spending on social networking sites like Facebook, Twitter and so forth. There are various risks associated with these sites, among which cyber bullying is most normal and widespread. The cyber bully usually posts hostile photographs and videos, deceiving information or expose secrets about objective on these sites to defame him/her.

Cyber bullying activities are so hurtful to the extent that sometimes it compels the victim to end his/her life. There have been various cases that include adolescents committing suicide due to being bullies or humiliated over the internet. Now, we have the Anti-Cyber bullying act or the Republic Act No. 10627 which is an act requiring schools to adapt policies to prevent the acts of bullying in the school that aims to protect the people especially children from being bullied. The utilization of technology to harass or threaten another individual has turned into a worldwide issue.

Cyberbullying has generally affected the young people. Spotting the issues can be simple or difficult relying upon the degree and the technological trend. For instance, social media platfo

From Classroom to Chatroom Tsz-Hin Cheung,Fraser Alistair David,Pui-Ming Ma,2017-01-27 This dissertation From Classroom to Chatroom Perception of Cyber Bullying in Hong Kong Schools by Tsz hin Cheung Fraser Alistair David Pui ming Ma Hoi yeuk Wong was obtained from The University of Hong Kong Pokfulam Hong Kong and is being sold pursuant to Creative Commons Attribution 3 0 Hong Kong License The content of this dissertation has not been altered in any way We have altered the formatting in order to facilitate the ease of printing and reading of the dissertation All rights not granted by the above license are retained by the author Abstract There are more news in recent years mentioning and discussing school bullying and to some extent its relationship to cyberbullying Bullying affects the whole community and has a great impact on pupils and adults Hamarus Kaikkonen 2007 The increased reporting and seriousness of bullying may increase public awareness and concerns about cyberbullying it brings to question how cyberbullying is different from traditional bullying and whether bullying is a threat to society or a moral panic generated by the media As a result this research aims to analyze the difference between traditional bullying and cyberbullying and discover whether there are any correlation factors related to bullying This research is based on qualitative design with two focus groups and three individual interviews There were 11 secondary school teachers aged between 23 to 53 who participated in this study Results suggested the difference between cyberbullying and traditional bullying focuses mainly on the high accessibility anonymity and more bystanders found on the web Nonetheless there are some similarities among traditional bullying and cyberbullying that both have ambiguous definitions and it is hard to define whether bullies are intentionally harm others Furthermore it is suggested there are transformations between traditional bullying and cyberbullying which increases the seriousness of bullying harms As a result it seems there is an eagerness in tackling bullying although one may question whether bullying is a moral panic Nonetheless as suggested in this study there was no moral panic on bullying in Hong Kong as perceived by teachers teachers on the other hand did not perceive bullying as a threat as well However there are some limitations which may vary the research result Lastly the results suggested there is more than one way to tackle bullying and not a single efficient tackling strategy Since this study mainly recruited secondary school teachers their perception on bullying may be different from the general public since they have more contact with bullying cases Thus future study is needed with more randomization Since bullies and victims voices will also be important in analyzing bullying it is suggested that future studies can also recruit bullies and victims in sharing their personal experiences DOI 10 5353 th_b5301531 Subjects Bullying in schools China Hong Kong

Classification : Analysis of Text in Social Media Memes Christopher E. Gomez,2020 Cyberbullying or online bullying is a form of harassment that occurs through the use of digital communication devices and social networking platforms and ultimately leads to physical or mental harm or distress to the intended target While the widespread use of social media sites has generated the power for individuals to communicate easily and quickly it has also caused an increase in cyberbullying incidents with offenders experiencing minimal or no consequences Additionally cyberbullying can manifest itself in multiple forms such as harmful text comments and emoticons as well as negative images or images containing bullying text Given the increase in cyberbullying and its varying presentation our goal is to develop a machine learning classification schema to minimize occurrences specifically involving image memes containing text We describe the methodology for the collection and annotation of an English short text subjective corpus 19 000 text comments created from data extracted from the YouTube API This corpus consists of current controversial and divisive topics such as politics religion gender and sexual orientation Based on previous research several different algorithms will be compared for classifying a Naive Bayes algorithm Support Vector Machine SVM and a convolutional neural network CNN Additionally we investigate classification accuracy for each of these algorithms on the entire dataset and when placing comments into topic based groups Finally we discuss the limitations of the dataset and explore a set of unsupervised classification techniques for identifying and relabeling incorrectly annotated comments Cyberbullying in the Global Playground Qing Li,Donna Cross,Peter K. Smith,2011-11-28 Cyberbullying in the Global Playground provides the first global in depth analysis of the emerging phenomenon of cyberbullying Offers the first thorough comparative account of recent research into the emerging global phenomenon of cyberbullying Provides an international perspective on the prevalence and nature of cyberbullying Presents recent authoritative research within a critical perspective drawing out theoretical and practical implications for policy and practice May be used to help design intervention evaluation and policy strategies for effective efforts to combat the international phenomenon of cyberbullying

Cyberbullying through the New Media Peter Smith,Georges Steffgen,2013-12-04 Cyberbullying is one of the darker and more troubling aspects to the growing accessibility of new media technologies Children in developed countries engage with cyberspace at younger and younger ages and the use of the internet as a means to bully and harass has been greeted with alarm by educationalists parents the media and governments This important new book is the result of a four year international collaboration funded by the EU to better understand how we can cope and confront cyberbullying and how new media technologies can be used to actually support the victims of such abuse The articles initially define the historical and theoretical context to cyberbullying before examining key issues involved in managing this pervasive phenomenon Coverage includes The definition and measurement of cyberbullying The legal challenges in tackling cyberbullying across a number of international contexts The role of mobile phone companies and Internet service providers in monitoring and prevention How the media frame and present the issue and how that influences our understanding How victims can cope with the effects of cyberbullying and the guidelines and advice provided in different countries How cyber bullying can continue from school into further education and the strategies that can be used to prevent it The ways in which accessing youth voice or maximising the contribution of young people themselves to the research process can enhance our understanding The book concludes with practical guidance to help confront the trauma that cyberbullying can cause It will be a valuable resource for researchers students policy makers and administrators with an interest in how children and young people are rendered vulnerable to bullying and harassment through a variety of online channels Cyber Bullying Jera-Lea Hall,2011 Thesis B C CJ Hons Griffith University 2011 Principles of Cyberbullying Research Sheri Bauman,Donna Cross,Jenny Walker,2012-12-20 In 2010 the International Cyberbullying Think Tank was held in order to discuss questions of definition measurement and methodologies related to cyberbullying research The attendees goal was to develop a set of guidelines that current and future researchers could use to improve the quality of their research and advance our understanding of cyberbullying and related issues This book is the product of their meetings and is the first volume to provide researchers with a clear set of principles to inform their work on cyberbullying The contributing authors all participants in the Think Tank review the existing research and theoretical frameworks of cyberbullying before exploring topics such as questions of methodology sampling issues methods employed so far psychometric issues that must be considered ethical considerations and implications for prevention and intervention efforts Researchers as well as practitioners seeking information to inform their prevention and intervention programs will find this to be a timely and essential resource
