

Review Questions: Fluid Forces

Concept of Force

- 1) What is mass? What is matter? How can you relate these terms to density?
Anything that is composed of matter will occupy space, and mass is a measure of the quantity of matter. For example, to say that something has a mass of 24 kg means there is 24 kg of matter present. The more matter per unit of space, the higher the density.
- 2) According to your notes, how do things that have mass experience motion? Please give an example in your response.
*Anything that has mass will require a FORCE applied to it to change its motion.
Example: you have to push a desk for it to experience motion (you applied a force - push - to the desk)*
- 3) What is weight? What type of force is associated with weight?
Weight is the amount of attraction between any objects that have mass - this FORCE of attraction is called gravitational force. The larger an object, the greater the gravitational force that it will exert on another object.
- 4) What is the difference between mass and weight?
Mass refers to the amount of matter in an object, weight refers to the amount of gravitational force it experiences.
- 5) Please list 5 types of forces, and give an example of each (different examples than we came up with in class!)
*Magnetic - e.g. a magnet
Friction - e.g. air resistance
Gravitational - e.g. waterfall
Elastic - e.g. slingshot
Electrical - e.g. static cling*

Unbalanced Forces

- 6) What can we say about the forces acting on an object that is in constant motion?
If an object is in CONSTANT motion, the forces are BALANCED.
- 7) How can an object be moving but have no NET forces acting on it?
If an object is not experiencing acceleration, it is in constant motion, and the forces are BALANCED. When forces are BALANCED there is no NET force.
